PINCHOT'S VICTORY BRINGS REAL SCARE TO OLD GUARD

Washington Leaders See Smashing of Political Machines

ECHOES ARE HEARD IN OHIO

May Cause Knight to Enter Race for Governor

(BY HERBERT W. WALKER)

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —Victory of Gifford Pinchot, over the once powerful Republican machine, coming close on Senator New's defeat in Indiana, has thrown a real scare into the old guard here.

One of the immediate results of the Pennsylvania progressive's triumph in a state where the Republican organization has reigned supreme for many years, will be an attempt on the part of old guard leaders in the senate to speed up legislation.

Two main reasons lie back of the old guard's sudden move for speed. These are:

1—Realization, privately admitted, that a large block of voters is dissatisfied with the present congress

2—A desire to wind up the present session and get back in their respective districts to "mend fences" in the hope of preventing defeats to party organizations, such as have came in Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Because of Pinchot's victory, there is also an increasing belief here that the political machines thruout the country are losing their effectiveness to a considerable degree Both Pinchot and Beveridge in Indiana "backed" strong party organizations and won.

ECHOES IN OHIO

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —Echoes of Gifford Pinchot's success in overturning the Pennsylvania political machine will be heard in Ohio this summer, in the opinion of Ohioans here

There may be two outstanding results

First—The candidacy for governor of Congressman Charles L. Knight of Akron, as a protest against the alleged "hand picking" by Ohio bosses of Carmi A Thompson, of Cleveland, as candidate for governor

Second—Refusal of Walter Brown, of Toledo, to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator

Just as voters in Pennsylvania and before that Indiana protested against machine domination of Republican politics, many Ohioans here think that Buckeye voters are equally dissatisfied

KNIGHT MAY RUN

AKRON — (United Press) — Congressman C L Knight may become a candidate for the nomination for governor, as a result of the surprising victory of Gifford Pinchot, independent candidate for nomination for governor of Pennsylvania, over George E Alter, party organization candidate

Knight declared today he thought the Pinchot victory presaged sweeping upheavals in the country's political situation

Altho he declined to make positive announcement Knight indicated his plans for a campaign on a "progressive basis' on the primary race had been given a new incentive by the unexpected defeat of the 'old guard" in the Keystone state and Indiana.

PINCHOT'S MAJORITY

PHILADELPHIA — (United Press) — Gifford Pinchot, victor at the primaries on Tuesday, for the gubernatorial nomination over George E Alter has a plurality of nearly 15,000 today, with 200 districts missing

At the rate he is gaining the poll of the missing districts will put the plurality up to about 20,000, it is estimated

The organization in the two big centers of population, Philadelphia and Allegheny-cos piled up a combined plurality for Alter of something like 125,000 of which about 45,000 was contributed by Allegheny

Against this the country districts gave an estimated Pinchot plurality of 145,000 overcoming the Philadelphia Allegheny figures for Alter and leaving the independent candidate a safe margin in the state as a whole.

United States Senator George W. Pepper serving now by appointment is winner of the seat held by the late Boies Penrose by an estimated majority of 250,000 over Congressman William J Burke. The nomination of Major David A. Reed for the United States senatorship was contested only mildly.

MISS MENGES AGAIN IN TOLEDO STATE HOSPITAL

TOLEDO — Miss Irene Menges, released May 5, from an iron-sheeted smoke house on her father's farm near Crestline, where she is said to have been held prisoner two years, is again a patient in the state hospital here

An examination to determine her sanity was made after she was taken from her father's home and it was found she was insane. She had been released from the Toledo state hospital in 1915, as mentally competent after having been treated for insanity.

Since being removed from the shed she has been living with the family of Sheriff Edward Knappenberger in Bucyrus. Commitment papers were made out by Judge G. W Sheets and the girl was brought here.

PUGILISTS FIGHT BOOTLEGGERS

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) —Bootleggers are so thick along the water front that the Atlantic Fruit Company has had to hire a squad of ex-pugilists to guard its pier from the swarms who meet every ship in the hope of re-stocking.

This became known today when "Gunboat" Smith led his squad into action against several motorboat loads who sped up to the dock just as the Princess May, inbound from Jamaica, made fast.

Smith said that the bootleggers, displaying bank rolls, called on members of the crew to produce liquor. Smith's party floored four of the men who had climbed onto the pier, put to flight the rest of the landing party and then, jumping into a skiff, drove off the motorboats.

$1,200 DEMANDED FROM MILLER

PREVIOUSLY FINED $1,500

Convicted on Testimony Offered By City Manager

Tony Miller, cafe owner, 29 public square, may be forced to pay $1,200 additional for selling liquor.

He has already paid $1,500 in fines since January 1 and now the state is planning to collect $1,200 more, as provided under Amended Senate Bill No. 17.

STATE TAX LEVIED

County Auditor C. R. Phillips received instructions for the state auditor Thursday to levy the tax against Miller, as provided by law. It is the first time that the law has ever been invoked in Allen-co.

Should Miller not pay the amount, the tax will be leveled against the owners of the building where sale of liquor occurred The Lima Brewing Company owns the property occupied by Miller's cafe.

Information against Miller was certified by state prohibition director to the state auditor. As provided by the amended law, the state certified the information to Phillips, with orders to assess $1,000 and a 20 per cent additional penalty against Miller, or the property owners

The information was signed by C. R. Randles, liquor deputy.

MUST BE PAID

Auditor Phillips said he had no choice but to assess the tax against the property

Miller was fined $500 by Judge E J. Jackson in January and $1,000 by Justice E M. Botkin in April. Witnesses against him in the last trial were: Manager C. A. Bingham the information states, and Mel Thompson, a liquor sleuth.

They testified that they purchased whiskey from Miller at 50 cents per glass. He was convicted on their testimony.

DRASTIC ACTION TO PUT TIPPING UNDER THE BAN IS TAKEN BY CHICAGO CLUB

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) —A formal campaign against tipping with severe penalties for both tipper and tippee has been started by the Olympia Fields Club, said to have the largest membership of any golf club in the world with four 18 hole links and a fifth planned.

In a letter sent to members today, the house and the sports and pastimes committee advise that the rules forbid tipping of waiters, course starters and caddies, pointing out in diplomatic language that the practice leads to undemocratic discrimination in favor of the more liberal tippers

It is advertised to the members that any infraction of the rule will cause the member to be cited to appear before the board of governors and the recipient of the gratuity to be forthwith dismissed from service.

Rules against tipping have been posted by a number of clubs, but such drastic action as is now threatened by the Olympia Fields Club is without recorded precedent.

RAABE URGES ETHICS OF DRUGGISTS BE UPHELD

A plea that the ethics of the druggists profession be upheld was voiced by Rudolph H. Raabe, dean of the College of Pharmacy at Ohio Northern University, Ada, in an address to members of the Lima Druggists' Association Wednesday night at the Barr Hotel.

Twenty members of the association were present at the meeting, the regular monthly dinner. Short talks were given by M. L. Allen, E. E. Hansaker, Charles Kraft and Ray Horn.

Edgar Thompson, E. B. Hale and Ira Klingler were appointed as the program committee for the next meeting, to be held June 21 at the Hotel Norval.

Murderer Escapes Chair

PIENING IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Judge Layton Accepts Plea of Guilty in Case

RE-TRIAL MOTION GRANTED

First Degree Murder Verdict Held Not Proven

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — Charles Piening, 46, Minster horse trader, convicted of murder in the first degree in the killing of Rev. Richard Schweiterman, pastor of St. Augustine Catholic church, at Minster, has escaped the death penalty.

Instead of being electrocuted, in accordance with the verdict of a jury of nine men and three women on April 21, he will spend the remainder of his days in the Ohio penitentiary, unless pardoned or paroled.

SENTENCED FOR LIFE

Judge F. C. Layton Thursday morning gave his decision on a motion heard two weeks ago, asking for a new trial. Mation was argued by Roy E. Layton, son of Judge Layton, as counsel for the defendant. Layton also set up that one of the jurors in the case had shown bias before the trial.

Judge Layton ruled that the evidence presented was insufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. Application for a new trial was granted and when permission was sought for the slayer to withdraw his plea of not guilty and enter a plea of guilty to a charge of murder, this also was granted.

Under the circumstances in such cases, the court is permitted to fix the degree of murder under which an accused person may be held. Judge Layton held that the accusation should be murder in the second degree. He accordingly sentenced Piening to life imprisonment. In the opinion of the court, premeditated and malicious murder was not proven.

Piening slew Rev. Schweiterman after the priest had been summoned to the Peining hovel to minister to the horse trader, a bachelor, who stated that he was ill. The slayer used a shot gun, the load of shot entering the priest's breast.

A few moments before Father Schweiterman was killed, Piening shot at his brother, John Piening, with a revolver. Coins in John's vest pocket deflected the bullet and his life was saved. John ran from the hovel, but the priest remained and endeavored to pacify the man. No one save Piening and Rev. Schweiterman was present when the fatal shot was fired

The injured man lived only a short time and made no ante mortem statement save that Piening had shot him and that he forgave him.

TEACHERS' EMPLOYMENT AGENCY IS OPENED

COLUMBUS — Establishment of a free teachers' employment agency in the state department of industrial relations, to which teachers may apply for jobs and superintendents for teachers, was announced today at the governor's office.

The statement says that of the 30,000 teachers in Ohio about 5,000 change positions annually and most of them thru the agency of private teachers' employment exchanges. The new free bureau is expected to save the 5,000 teachers $250,000 annually, the statement says.

Scores of teachers already have applied to the new state agency which is in charge of W. J. Biebesheimer. state employment director, it is declared

MARION — W. J. Glenn of Kenton, one of the owners of the Kenton Daily Democrat, has purchased the interests of J. Wilbur Jacoby and Samuel Burgess in the Marion Daily Tribune.

"BIG TIM," ALLEGED GANGSTER, POWER IN HIS CIRCLE

Rises to Leadership Thru Force —Faces Serious Charge in Chicago Labor War

CHICAGO — (Special) — Chicago is the only city in the United States that could, in 1922, produce a "Big Tim" Murphy.

Tho under indictment with Fred Mader "Con" Shea and five others in connection with the labor war bombings in which two policemen were killed, Murphy's friends stand by him.

In fact, he has a police record as long as one's arm; and yet this has in no way interfered with his rise to leadership in Chicago labor circles or in politics. Big Tim has been a congressman's private secretary in Washington and a member of the Illinois legislature.

Big Tim has "influoence." And "influence" is what counts. It makes no matter how a man gets it, or how he uses it. Just so he has it, Chicago—or to be strictly accurate, a part of Chicago—respects the possessor thereof.

Out near the stockyards is a tough district. The only right that really counts is the right that starts from the shoestrings and lands square on the button under an adversary's chin. It was in this district Tim Murphy was born 33 years ago. That's where he grew up. That's where he lives today, with his liveried chauffeur, his blooded dogs, and his speedy racing cars.

Murphy's political record is insignificant compared with his achievements in the labor world of Chicago. He has absolutely dominated the street sweepers dominated the unions, and has earned the name of being a power in building trades unions.

As for his police record, his most notorious difficulty was his arrest charged with killing "Mossy" Enright, a rival labor leader. When the case came to trial the witnesses had vanished. At present he is under six years' jail sentence from the federal court, which also imposed an additional $30,000 fine, for conspiracy in the $300,000 Dearborn mail robbery.

THREE ARE FINED AS TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

One speeder and two motorists who failed to provide their machines with tail lights while parked constituted the docket of traffic cases Thursday before Judge Emmett J. Jackson in criminal court.

R. T. Kolter of Wapakoneta was accused of driving his car at 35 miles per hour. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10

M. D. Owen, 701 W. Elm-st and John Cusic, 100 W Circular, were fined $5 on the tail light charge

NAMES SLAYERS OF POLICEMEN

Driver of Death Car at Chicago Confesses

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) —Police today made public a confession said by them to have been obtained from John Miller, alleged driver of the car from which shots were fired killing two Chicago policemen May 9, in the labor war. The two men with Miller in the car, according to his confession, were Charles Daudzauskis, alias "Fednick," and "Floater" Stanley Search for the men was started today.

Indictment of at least four more persons, one a woman, will be asked of the grand jury today in connection with the police hunt for "terrorists" who police say are operating in secret against the Landis wage award, a decision handed down by K. M. Landis, former federal judge acting as arbiter to settle differences between contractors and members of the Chicago Building Trades Council.

FACED WITH EVIDENCE

Miller's confession was obtained, police say, when he was confronted with evidence connecting him with the slaying of Terrence Lyons, acting lieutenant, and Thomas Clark, patrolman, on guard over a building being erected under the Landis award

"Daudzauskis and Stanley asked me to drive them around, as they had a job on hand and wanted to look the ground over," police say Miller's confession reads

"They told me to drive them down to Twenty-second and Lumber streets. When we got there a policeman came up and stopped us Daudzauskis drew a gun and fired when he was being searched. We drove away but a police car later drove up and ordered us to halt Again Daudzauskis fired.

"We deserted the car and I reported it stolen to the police," authorities say the confession reads.

RESCUE CUT OFF BY CAVE-IN

Historic Institution Swept by Flames in Rome

STREET COLLAPSE BURIES 20

Shrieks of Patients Mingle With Crackling Blaze

ROME—(Associated Press) — A disastrous fire swept the historic hospital of Santo Spirito, one of the most ancient and picturesque charitable institutions in Rome, early today. Collapse of the pavement isolated the chronic ward. Sixteen bodies had been extracted from the burning ruins at 7:30 o'clock.

The institution accommodates nearly 5,000 inmates and includes a hospital, lunatic asylum, foundling home and a refuge for aged and infirm persons.

The fire broke out shortly before midnight in the laundry. At first it seemed insignificant, but it spread rapidly to neighboring wards, each containing 30 chronic sufferers or infirm patients, who were seized with panic. The shrieks of the sufferers mingled with the crackling of the flames while the atmosphere rapidly became dense with smoke.

PAVEMENT COLLAPSE

Nurses and doctors quickly cleared the bed-ridder from one ward and in the next ward three of the patients crawled out. Neighboring firemen rushed to the scene, but at the moment of their arrival the electric lights were extinguished, adding to the horror of the situation.

As the immense wooden beams of the hospital fell, there was a heavy grinding noise and the pavement collapsed, burying 20 of the chronic patients and rendering access to the wards impossible.

Carabineers, royal guards, nurses and doctors made heroic efforts to save the patients, rushing thru the smoke and fire and bringing out 12, all of whom, however, were dead, from suffocation. Several of the rescue parties were injured. The two wards were destroyed, but the firemen saved the rest of the buildings.

PATIENTS TERROR STRICKEN

The mayor and the prefect hurried to the scene and assisted in calming the terror-stricken patients who were saved and lay on the floors waiting to be moved to the surrounding institutions.

Sixteen bodies already have been recovered. Four other patients were badly burned and one dangerously injured.

The hospital or Santo Spirito is situated on the bank of the river Tiber, not far from the Vatican grounds. It was founded by Pope Innocent III in the twelfth century, enlarged by Innocent IV in the thirteenth and rebuilt under Sixtus IV, in the fifteenth.

The altar in the hospital chapel was designed by Andrea Palladio, and is reputed to be the only work of this artist in Rome.

COMFORT STATION IS ASSURED

Underground Rooms Planned at Main and North-sts

COUNTY TO PAY COST, $9,000

Bids to Be Asked Soon by Commissioners

Lima is to have two modern downtown comfort stations for public use.

They are to be located underground at the court house and will be built at county expense, according to members of the board of county commissioners. The stations are to be under the sidewalk at Main and North-sts, and will cost not less than $9,000.

Plans for the stations, one for men and one for women, are being drawn by Leech & Leech, architects, Badeau building, and will be completed within a few days.

TO ASK BIDS SOON

As soon as the plans are delivered to the commissioners, the board will advertise for bids.

According to plans, the stations will be modern in everyway.

There will be sufficient room in the men's half for a shoe shining parlor and public telephone station. The women's department will contain a small rest room and a telephone booth

The rooms will be finished in white tile brick. There will be both free and pay toilets. Partitions will be of pink Tennessee marble.

Entrance to the women's station will be on Main-st and the men's entrance will be on North-st. Concrete and glass will cover the rooms and make a walk above.

The excavation will be ten feet deep, which will give about nine feet clearance Ventilation will be secured by an areaway at one side, connecting with copper posts at the top of the stairways. The posts are to be hollow, and will also serve for light standards.

CITY PLANS REJECTED

An ornamental railing will safeguard the stairways, which will be inside the walk, on what is now part of the courthouse yard.

The cannon and flag pole will not be disturbed

Commissioners in refusing to cooperate with the city a year ago and erect a station in the square, announced they might build a station at the court house. They kept their intentions secret however, until the plans were practically completed.

BEER, WINE VOTE DEMANDED

Congress Asked to Go on Record by Liberals

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —Liberals in the house joined hands today in a vigorous campaign to inject the wet and dry issue into this fall's elections.

Their hope is to force a vote in the house and perhaps also in the senate on the proposition of legalizing light wines and 2.75 per cent beer so that the people over the country will know just where the 1922 edition of congressional candidates stand on "Volsteadism" and can "swat" accordingly.

The fight for a wet-dry vote in the house will center around a bill introduced by Representative Hill, Maryland, Republican giving each congressional district local option this fall on the manufacture of beer and wines, to be used only in homes and taxed at 20 cents a gallon.

Petitions asking the house ways and means committee to conduct early hearings on the bill and report it to the house for a vote were put in circulation among house members today by Hill and other "liberals."

Hill said he was confident that from 50 to 100 members would sign the petition and either number would be sufficient in the case of any ordinary legislation, to force not only committee consideration, but action on the floor as well.

Hill said he estimated on the basis of 2,000,000,000 gallons of beer produced in 1914 that the tax his bill would put on beer would yield the government $400,000,000 a year and that another $100,000,000 would be raised by the tax on wine.

JEWELERS MEET

Seven Lima jewelers met at the Barr Hotel Wednesday night for their monthly dinner and an informal discussion of trade problems. Harry Thew, Warren Basinger, J. W. Puetz, Charles Schneider, Morgan Davis, H. Jehle and Homer Hughes were present.

ARE YOU A FLIRT? THEN BLAME YOUR COMPLEX!

(BY MARIAN HALE)

Why do girls flirt?

Often the question has been raised by despairing swains, frantic husbands and irate fathers and mothers.

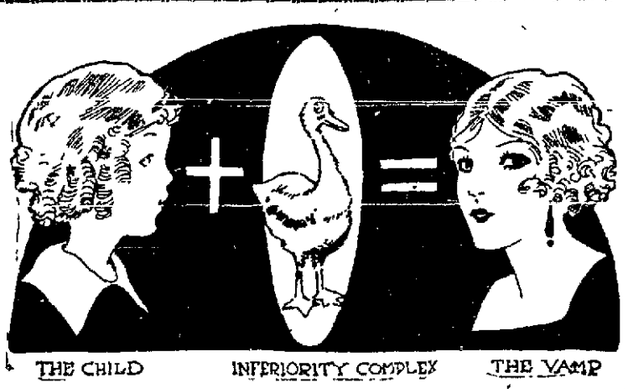

Now the real truth is out. A girl flirts because she has an inferiority complex: Here we have something to put our teeth in.

This explanation comes from Andre Tridon, who has written several books on psychoanalysis, and who knows all the complexes by their first names.

"The inferority complex is developed in childhood," he told me "The little girl in school, not particularly apt, soon believes she is mentally inferior.

"Then feminine instinct, which can always be relied on, warns her that as she is ever going to attract attention it must be by some other means than her scholarship and mental attainments.

"Then she begins to draw attention to herself by her curls or her engaging smile or some physical attribute. And another flirt, gold-digger, vamp or siren, is onthe way

"As she grows older her complex matures. Subconsciously, she still believes she is inferior mentally. But she thinks if she can always be surrounded by men who seem to be madly in love with her, no one will notice this. She won't even notice it herself.

"She needs the constant assurance that she is being admired and that she can charm men. She flirts because that is her way of getting what she must have."

So you see when a woman once get an firm growth of inferiority complex the matter is out of her hands Even if she wished to renounce her ways she couldn't. Her complex wouldn't let her.

However, going further into the matter, I learned that everyone who amounts to anything has one. It is the only thing that ever made the race see any need for improvement.

"With strong types, the inferiority complex spurs the individual to greater mental activity," Mr. Tridon explained.

"The child who realizes she may not be a beauty, for instance, develops a charm of manner, and accomplishments that make her as much sought after as if she were a beauty.

"A woman who feels herself inferior socially often develops into a splendid business or professional woman.

"The inferiority complex and a negative personality make a flirt or a freakish person of some kind The inferiority complex and a positive personality make a social leader, an artist, a business or professional woman."

So now, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy, and the rest of you women who made history by your flirtations, we know why you did it! Your power started when you couldn't get your lessons.

After that you were merely the tools of your complexes!

KLAY KIDNAPERS ARE SENTENCED

ABDUCTED AUTO DRIVERS

Not Probable They Will be Returned to Lima

Four Detroit youths who held up and robbed John J. Klay a Lima man, March 28, at the Parks & McClure filling station, Bellefontaine-av and Kibby-st, kidnaping him and taking him with them to Michigan, have had justice meted out to them in a Detroit court.

Herman Maronette was sentenced to a term of from five to 15 years in Marquette. Arthur Hawley must serve from three to 15 years in Jackson and Ray Nolan from five to 15 years in a house of correction. Ray Littlefield was remanded to jail pending action by the probation department, whether he should be sentenced or given another chance.

Littlefield, Maronette, Hawley and Nolan were sentenced Wednesday for holding up, kidnaping and robbing Leroy Fogle, Detroit, March 26.

Fogle was an innocent witness of the quartette's action in kidnaping Klay. The car which they drove here was owned by him. He was forced to come along, he said. They coerced him into keeping his mouth shut while they relieved Klay of $100 and packed him into the car, driving into Michigan. But officers were waiting for them and they were apprehended at Wyandotte.

Allen-co authorities had been awaiting the outcome of the action against the men in Detroit. Since they have been sentenced it is improbable they will be brought here to face the charge of abducting Klay.

YEASTING NAMED

CINCINNATI — United Press) — W. H. Yeasting, president of the Commercial Savings and Trust Company of Toledo, by acclamation was elected president of the Ohio Bankers' Associations in convention here today. Other officers elected were:

MORE SHOWERS ARE SCHEDULED

More rain! Not a desirable outlook atall. However, that which cannot be cured must be endured.

It is the natural order of things that excess of moisture will be dissipated some time. If it isn't, well — it may be necessary for a Noah to build another ark. This part and parcel of the country is fortunate in being spared from the damaging effects of high waters. In the south a different story is beng told.

Showers tonight; cooler in extreme west portion; Friday partly cloudy; probably showers in east portion.

Arrangements for outdoor activities are "subject to change without notice," as they say in connection with schedules of railroad trains.

GOAL IS NEAR IN "Y" CAMPAIGN

Three-Fourths of $20,000 Fund Has Been Secured

Subscriptions totaling $5,182 were reported at the noonday luncheon of the teams campaigning for $20,000 for the Y. M. C. A. current expense fund, at the Y Thursday.

This brings the total subscribed to $15,206, or three-fourths of the amount desired. A final report will be made by all workers Friday noon at the "Y."

Team No. 12, led by C. V. Stephens, was the highest in the amount of subscriptions obtained. They reported $431. The executive committee doubled the amount and credited $862 to the team's account bringing the total to $1,293.

Totals by divisions: Division A, Frank Thomas, $535; Division B, H. E. Simonton, $476; Division C, $1,638, and Division D, Walter McLaughlin, $805.50. The executive committee announced pledges amounting to $1,728.

It was reported that a number of workers were busy and unable to attend the luncheon and report the subscriptions received by them. A number of persons have not been seen as yet and the committee is confident that the amount needed will be raised.

While it had been planned to close the campaign at 6 p. m. Thursday night it was decided to permit the workers to solicit during the afternoon and evening, making their final report at noon Friday.

A number of the teams reported that men were not only subscribing to the fund but were also taking memberships in the association. Memberships and gifts to the boys' work are not counted in the totals given above.

HUBBARD FUNERAL IS ARRANGED FOR FRIDAY

HURLEY ASKS FOR CLEMENCY

Escaped Lima Prisoner Writes to Judge Jackson

Proof that a man seen at the L. E. & W. oilhouse, near the Locomotive Works, Monday night, was Frank Hurley, a fugitive from the Toledo workhouse, was contained in a letter received Thursday by Judge Emmett J. Jackson from Hurley himself.

The letter was postmarked in Lima and contains a request that the judge free him from a six months' sentence, imposed when he was found guilty in March of beating his wife.

Hurley was also fined $100 which was paid out of a roll of $500 he had on him when arrested. The remaining $400 was given to his wife, who now is located in Macon, Ga., where Hurley turned up some time ago, after escaping from Toledo at the conclusion of three days spent in the workhouse.

THIRD OF MAY FESTIVAL PROGRAMS GIVEN TONIGHT; FINAL OFFERING FRIDAY

Patrons of Lima public schools will enjoy the third and fourth numbers of the May festival series of entertainments Thursday and Friday evenings.

The third program will be given Thursday evening when South Junior High school and the Senior chorus will be in charge.

The fourth and last of the series will be given Friday evening, when pupils of Garfield, McKinley, Washington, Whittier, Lincoln, Emerson and Longfellow schools will provide the program.

Both festivals will be held at Central High school auditorium. Prof. Mark Evans, supervisor of music in the public schools, and Miss Irene Buckley, supervisor of physical activities, wil be in charge of the programs.

SPEAKER FOR DECORATION DAY SERVICES IS NAMED

Rev. Father James Clark, pastor of St. Gerard's Catholic church, will be principal speaker at the Decoration day ceremonies, to be held on Tuesday, May 30, at Memorial hall.

Such was announcement made following the meeting of patriotic committees at Memorial hall Wednesday evening. Complete arrangements for the day's observance will be made at a meeting to be held here Wednesday night.

Girl Scouts attended the meeting. They will have an important place in the parade, which will pass thru the principal streets of the city in the afternoon and disperse for the services at Memorial hall at 2 p. m.

Mrs. G. A. Herrett, chairman of the committee on music, has completed that part of the program. Mrs. E. J. Curtiss and Mrs. Joseph Davison will sing. Mrs. Nettie Pressnell, who is soloist at services being held in Memorial hall by a religiou organization, will sing, "How Betsy Ross Made the Flag." John Klatte, commander of Mart Armstrong post, and Maurice Conner, commander of William Paul Gallagher post, American Legion, will stand with Mrs. Pressnel as she sings.

A company of young girls will sing as they garland the monument to be placed on the stage. Mart Armstrong drum corps will play martial airs.

TRIANGULAR RACE FOR SHERIFF BY REPUBLICANS

A triangular race for the Republican nomination for sheriff is looming, with prospects that the fight may prove warm before the polls close on the night of August 8.

C. L. Roberts, Lafayette, who was first to file, is still in the race. Raleigh J. Dixon, chief of detectives at the Lima Locomotive plant, got into the race officially and Harvey B. Crosson in circulating papers but had not filed at noon Thursday.

Crosson resides at 649 Harrison-av. He made the race two years ago but lost at the polls.

He is now an inspector for the state industrial department.

DAYTON MAN INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Edward Higgins, 35, Dayton, representative of the Kentucky Central Life Insurance Co., suffered cuts about the head and injuries to his neck and shoulders when struck by an automobile Wednesday at 8 p. m.

The car is said to have been driven by a man named Shultz, who resides in Allentown and is employed by the Beckman Electric Co. The accident occurred on the Allentown-rd as Shultz was driving to his home in his Ford car. Higgins was removed to City hospital.

Dog Is Abused, Wails Master

Passersby wondered. They were not accustomed to hearing music of the days long agone coming out of that place. Rather, the latest compositions had always been heard there. There was so much feeling in the old song that some inquired.

They sought Don John, proprietor of the music shop that bears his name. "How come?" they inquired.

"Sad story," replied the apparently broken-hearted Don, owner of the most widely advertised cannie in town. "First, they kicked my Fido back off the curb where he loved so well to sit. Then I hired a boy to haul him thru the streets in a wagon. Now they deny him that privilege. Oh, 'tis too much, the way they treat my dorg."

Pressed for further information, John explained that General Byng, city manager, had told the boy to inform the over-grown pup's master to cease trundling him thru the streets.

O. E. PASSENGER RATE CUT PLEA IS GRANTED; FIGURES TELL STORY

Permission to slice passenger fares between Lima and Toledo for Sunday traffic during the remainder of the summer was granted to teh Ohio Electric by the public utilities commission Thursday.

Announcement of radical reductions in fares were made by company officials, following receipt of the commissions award.

Fares will be but slightly in excess of one cent a mile for the round trip according to a schedule given out by F. A. Bundy.

New rates will be effective Sunday May 21. The fare for the round trip from Lima to Toledo is cut to $1.90. West Cairo, $1.80; Columbus Grove, $1.60; Ottawa, $1.50; Leipsic, $1.30; Deshler, $1.10.

PRIZE FIGHTER FACES CHARGE LAID BY GIRL

A chance flirtation in a dance hall more than a year ago, culminated in Justice W. H. Guyton's court Thursday, when Jack Verbryke, 19, pugilist, 414 Haller-st was arraigned on a charge preferred by Ruth Haller, 22, of N. Union-st.

Verbryke, who has showed on a number of boxing cards in Lima during the winter, was arrested by J. G. Zimmerman, special constable. When not engaged in the ring, the youth works at the B. & O. railroad shops.

He pleaded not guilty, and gave bond for $300. The case will be heard May 24.

Verbryke met the girl at a dance a year ago. They commenced going together, and he promised to marry her, she says. There is a child, born during January.

QUARTET IS HELD ON SUSPICION

Men, Women Accused of Fictitious Hotel Registration

Fictitious registration at a hotel may be the charge placed against C. E. Economas, 23, Chicago; George Calaoh, 25, Hammond, Ind.; Betty McAllister, 23, Cleveland and Pauline Logman, 23, Michigan City, Ind., police said, as the result of the quartet being taken in custody Wednesday night at the Sanders hotel, 122½ E. Market-st.

The four were booked on suspicion, pending investigation of an alleged rendezvous. Plainclothesmen Kipker, Taylor, Hargrove and Blair made the arrests.

Several grips, filled with clothing, letters and literature of all kinds were found with them, but there was nothing of an incriminating nature, according to police. Calaoh had $42.86; Economas, $50.01.

Charges of violating the white slave act may be laid against the men, police intimated as the investigation of the case proceeded Thursday.

Thus nothing was contained in the letters found in their luggage that would fasten the charge on them, police said, the men are accused in a letter of wrongdoing against a cousin of one of the girls.

The girls are reticent about their home life, according to police, and will not disclose addresses, alleging they do not want their people to learn of their plight.

Intentions of the men in enticing the women to Lima will be thoroly investigated and straightened out, no matter if the men will not talk, Chief of Police Lanker declared.

INTERURBAN LINES AND CITY TO WAR ON SIGNS PLACED ON LIMA POLES

Both the Western Ohio and the Ohio Electric have promised to cooperate with the city commission in the elimination of signs and posters from the poles of the two companies.

In a letter addressed to the city manager the companies agreed to see that no posters were permitted on their poles, unless they were first approved by the officials.

It is planned by the city to keep all but the more important posters from the poles of the city inasmuch as they soon become torn and present a very unsightly appearance.

Hereafter it is planned that any persons seeking permission to place posters on the poles will be required to obtain permission of both the city and in the interurban companies.

CONTEST OVER FINE

DELPHOS — Mrs William Jones, charged with assaulting Yvonne Walls, daughter of Mrs. Ella Walls, was fined $15 by Mayor J. K. Williams. Mrs. Jones says she won't pay the fine and the mayor is equally determined that he will collect. Outcome of the judicial tangle is being watched with interest by the remainder of the citizenry.

PLANS MOVE FORWARD FOR Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS

Preparations for the second annual performance of Ringlingback and Hagen Brothers circus at the Y. M. C. A., are rapidly being completed. It will be held in the "Y" gymnasium May 19 and 20.

There will be pyramid building, trick marching, a parade before the performance, radio programs from stations "what ain't" and other features too numerous to mention.

A large aggregation of clowns and amusing acts, "imported without regard to expense from South Lima," are also billed for the enjoyment of the audience.

Another feature of the program will be athletic stunts by members of the "Y" teams. A large variety of athletic events are on the schedule. It will be a real circus, with animals in everything, the managers say.

CLINIC IS PLANNED

Diagnosticians to Visit Lima May 31 and June 1

Dr. J. B. Poling, city health commissioner, announces that Dr. Charles S. Rockhill, medical director of Rockhill sanatorium, Cincinnati, and Dr. Warren C. Breedenbach, superintendent of Stillwater sanatorium, Dayton, have volunteered their services as diagnosticians for the local tuberculosis clinic, which will be held May 31 and June 1 at the Health center, Elm and West-sts.

Dr. Poling says these physicians have specialized for years on diseases of the chest and are recognized authorities on tuberculosis.

Health leaders declare that in every instance patients attending the clinic will be referred back to their own physicians and that no information as to treatment or care will be given to the patient.

The physican in charge will be given a copy of the specialist's findings and recommendations. Dr. Poling wishes that it be made plain the consent of the physician in charge of the case is necessary before the nurses will register any patient for the clinic.

DEMANDED WAGE CUT REJECTED BY UNION

CINCINNATI—Cigar-maker's Local Union No. 4, of Cincinnati voted down demands of manufacturers for a wage reduction the workers declare is the most sweeping in the history o fthe industry in this city.

Joseph Bauer, business agent of the union, in a statement, said: "The bill of prices presented to us by the Manufacturers' Association figures an average wage reduction of 30 per cent. The vote to reject the demands was unanimous. We will notify the manufacturers immediately, and perhaps there will be a conference before the end of the week."

WOMEN TO EXTEND PARTY'S WORK

Big Opportunities Await, Says Head of Organization

WILL NOT ANTAGONIZE MEN

Can Elect Presidents of Future, Mrs. Belmont Asserts

By MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT
President of the Woman's Party

BEACON TOWERS, Port Washington, L. I.—(Special)—Women are the national housekeepers of the world. We have been kept out of political housekeeping, and we need a party of our own to accomplish the political work awaiting us.

The building we are dedicating next Sunday in Washington is our meeting place. It is the first and only political woman's parliament in the world. We are to deal simply with political matters.

To be able to influence existing conditions we cannot afford to wait until we get sufficiently strong within an existing party. To carry weight we must act alone.

We have no idea of antagonizing the men—no idea of sex antagonism. We simply wish to change certain conditions, to accomplish certain things and to bring the women's point of view into the political world.

To do this we had to have the Woman's Party. Now we have headquarters in the national capital. Soon we shall have headquarters in every state capital and in every town and village.

There is no sense in our getting the vote and doing nothing with it.

NOT FIGHTING MEN

It is a mistaken idea that we mean to fight the men. We are not thinking of the men. We are thinking of the community. If a man running for office deserves our vote he will get it. We can throw our strength to a party or to a candidate and dictate elections.

There will be more and more women candidates, backed by the women's own party. But we are not anxious for political position. We will fight for office when we see that the right woman is needed in the right place.

I see nothing to prevent women from occupying the highest offices in the land. There are several women who would make greater presidents than many we have had.

Alice Paul is the biggest figure now among women in politics. She has the brains, the earnestness and the equipment for such an office as the presidency.

There is a tremendous work for the Woman's Party to do. Men haven't done the work and they don't intend to do it. We must. Man is the destructive force, woman the conserving force.

Everybody must realize the neglected conditions that exist, and that the men in power have shown little interest in correcting them. One of the greatest evils is that the laws of many states do not recognize women as equals of men. We are carrying this fight into every state.

CHILDREN IN SPRING TIME

Mrs. C. Osborn, 7813 Hillside-rd., Cleveland, O., writes: "My granddaughter was troubled with a cough for nearly two years. She took Foley's Honey and Tar and her cough is now gone. It loosened the phlegm so she could raise it easily." Foley's Honey and Tar is just what children should have for feverish colds, coughs, "snuffles" and tight, wheezy breathing. Be sure to get Foley's. It checks croup and whooping cough, too. Chas. J. Vortkamp, Main and McKibben-sts.

HARDING SHOWING STRAIN OF OFFICE

Appears as Sad, Tired Old Man, Forbes Said

GOVERNMENT CHANGE URGED

More Executive Duties for Vice-President Proposed

(By B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Can President Harding bear up under the terrific strain of the inordinate number of duties and responsibilities we are now heaping upon our chief executive?

I saw a good deal of President Harding at close range during his last week-end outing in New Jersey, and his appearance at once raised that question in my mind.

Frankly, President Harding looked a sad, tired old man. In repose, he looked tired, not to say worried. Oh, yes, he was always ready to respond smilingly to greetings. In this and other respects he played his part very well. That was Harding, the president. Harding the man without his presidential mask, looked fatigued, worn out.

You may have heard comments—or made comments—about the frequency of President Harding's absences from Washington on pleasure jaunts by yacht, by train, by automobile. Some have remarked that evidently being president couldn't be such a hard job, after all, or Mr. Harding wouldn't be able so often to pack up and leave his office for several days or a week or more at a time.

I am told that these many brief spells of relaxation are not of Mr. Harding's own seeking, but that they have been virtually forced upon him by his medical and other advisers.

Indeed, one hears that there have been times when those closest to the President were seriously perturbed over his condition—more so, perhaps, than he was himself, as he felt that it was simply up to him to carry on without question.

Remember that the duties of the President of the United States have multiplied enormously within the last decade. They are now so multifarious, so complicated, so delicate, so burdensome, so wearing that they are calculated to overwhelm any man of only ordinary mental and physical stamina. The international obligations of the office alone are now as numerous and trying as the total obligations were a generation ago.

President Roosevelt once declared enthusiastically, "I like my job." He was so constituted, both mentally and physically, that the duties didn't overwhelm him. He was a trojan and had a faculty of reaching and making decisions with great dispatch.

President Taft had the geniality and the don't-worry characteristics proverbial of the fat man, so that he got thru his term without suffering any ill-effects.

Now, is it not time to consider how the duties attached to the Presidency could be greatly lightened without deranging or in any way injuring our present system of governmen?

My suggestion would be that the office of vice-president be made equivalent to the office of vice-president in a large business organization.

Our cabinet ministers are heads of departments. Each is concerned only with the affairs coming under his bailiwick, just as are heads of departments in an industrial or other business corporation.

Almost every president of a large business organization, however, has a vice president familiar with the general running of the organization and clothed with sufficient powers to enable him greatly to lighten the load of the President. All matters of minor importance passed up by department heads are considered and decided by the vice president—many organizations have not one vice president but several vice presidents.

Couldn't there be a drastic recasting of the duties devolving upon the vice-president of the greatest organization in the country, the United States government?

A rearrangement, a realignment of the kind suggested could be effected without reducing in any way the responsibilities, the accountability of the President for the proper administration of the presidential duties. There would be no question of divided authority, only divided duties. Just as the president of a business corporation has the power to and does delegate duties to a vice president, but is not thereby held any less accountable by the board of directors for the right results, so the step proposed would not lessen the president's responsibility or lessen his obligation to see that the Presidential and vice-presidential duties were carried out to the satisfaction of the people of the United States.

PLANS ARE STARTED FOR FALL RELIGIOUS MEETING

Plans for an autumn meeting of church workers of Allen-co were made Thursday, at a conference of local ministers and religious workers, held here with the Rev. A. B. Eby, Columbus. The date was set for November 15 and Lima as the place.

These county mass meetings were approved, Eby said, at a recent conference of state denominational leaders and by the council of the Ohio Federation of Churches.

Local arrangements for the mass meeting of church workers will be in charge of the Lima Federated churches. Denominational leaders are urging local churches to give full cooperation in the inter-denaminational gatherings.

INDIAN IS MEMORY CHAMPION

Los Angeles Man Astounds Scientific Examiners

(By JACK JUNGMEYER)

LOS ANGELES — (Special) — An Indian so dense during his youth that it took him nine years to clear the fourth grade is today at 35 the nation's memory champion!

Charles W. Hamley's mental feats astound scientific examiners. Hamley maintains, and demonstrates at the University of Southern California and his own classrooms here, that any normal being can duplicate his astounding performances.

Three weeks after "learning to think," he had qualified as the only memory expert with the United States army in France.

He carried code messages that could not be entrusted to writing. He acted as the memory for his division.

He mentally inventoried a great railway supply yard in seven hours, without making a note, and a corps of army clerks were a week inscribing this information.

He can repeat lectures and books verbatum. He can rattle off the names of 100 men he was introduced to last month.

Professors of the University of Washington, Stanford and U. S. C., say he imbibes in a few weeks information it takes the average college student four years to acquire.

"The secret of my capacity," Hamley says, "is to insert mental action into whatever I wish to remember.

"I treat names, dates, figures and other abstractions as if they were physical objects. I 'fix' them by linking them up with fantastic imaginary adventures, as a child spins a fairy tale, so that I can see them vividly with my mind's eye.

"When I want to retain in sequence 100 names, for instance, I see a HEN wearing a big plug HAT and turning to peck at a juicy HAM on which sits a ludicrous RABBIT who proceeds to chase a green COW up the HILL over a bee HIVE. By this process anyone can remember surprisingly well.

"Things you yourself have done are easiest to recall. Things are have seen are next easiest.

"Things read, or acquired secondhand, are not so intimate or vivid. Hence they must be translated into personal experience by imaginary pictures and mental action.

"I have literally thousands of long picture chains, embracing a wide range of knowledge, securely tied to my mental hitching post, to be released at will."

STEPS ON RUSTY NAIL; REED DIES OF LOCKJAW

Five thousand units of anti-toxin, applied twice daily failed to save the life of Harry Dice Reed, 20, laborer, rear of 132 S. Cole-st, suffering from lockjaw. Reed died Wednesday at 11 p. m.

Ten days previous to May 7, when a physician was called, Reed, while at his work, stepped on a rusty nail. Little was thought of the accident at the time.

Reed is survived by his mother, Mrs. Theodosia Focht; his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Reed; four half brothers and one half sister. They are Arnold, Earl, Clyde, Carl and Mabel Foght, all residing at the family home.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

G. O. P. SENATORS CHALLENGED

Stay on Job or Resign, Chairman McCumber Demands

BLAMED FOR TARIFF DELAY

Doesn't Expect Democrats to Furnish Quorum

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Senate Republicans and Democrats were in accord today on at least one point with regard to the administration tariff bill—that it will be before the senate for a long time.

Formal notice was given by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the majority leader, that it was the intention of those in charge of the legislation to keep it under consideration practically continuously until it was passed irrespective of the time required.

Announcement was made by Senator Underwood of Alabama, the minority leader, that it was the purpose of the Democrats to debate the bill for weeks, not, he said, for the purpose of delay, but to let the country know what was in it.

These announcements were forthcoming in the course of a stormy session of the senate last night which wound up with a fiery speech by Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, in charge of the tariff bill, who invited Republican senators absenting themselves on roll calls either to stay on the job or resign.

Senator McCumber said he could not expect the Democrats who did not believe in the bill to furnish a quorum, but that he did expect the Republicans who believed in the bill and who could attend the sessions, to remain on the job. If they did not, he declared, they should resign and let their states send to the senate men who would do so.

The senate had difficulty during the early hours in keeping a quorum for last night's session, the fifth that had been held after sundown for consideration of the tariff measure. There were seven roll calls before a sustained attendance of a bare majority could be had and meantime the sergeant-at-arms had been directed to "request" the presence of the absentees.

FOR ITCHING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, Itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid, clean, easy to use and dependable. It costs only 35c; an extra large bottle, $1.00. It is positively safe for tender, sensitive skins.

TANKS TO BE ERECTED FOR OXIDATION TESTS

Two tanks to test the merits of the direct oxidation method of sewage disposal will be installed in Lima for an actual test of the system.

Each tank will be two feet square and will be built along the same lines as the regular tanks which it is proposed to install as a part of Lima's intercepting sewer system.

In one tank lime only will be used in the treatment of the sewage and in the other both lime and electricity will be employed. This will permit a comparison of the two methods.

Lime alone has proven excellent in the treatment of sewage, but to obtain the best results both lime and electricity should be used, it is stated.

As pointed out, when lime or electricity are used alone only a part of the bacteria are killed. It is claimed that when both are used in the same tank practically all bacteria are destroyed.

This test has been approved by the state board of health thru W. H. Dittoe, its chief engineer. One of the reasons for the test is the desire to see a plant in operation in Ohio. Citizens of Lima will be able to see the test and judge the method for themselves.

OTTAWA ATTORNEY IS SURGERY PATIENT HERE

A. V. Watts, 80, attorney, Ottawa, is recovering at St. Rita's hospital, from an abdominal operation, to which he was subjected Wednesday.

Watts, who has a wide acquaintance thruout Northwestern Ohio, has been in ill health the past two years.

Word from the hospital Thursday was to the effect he had a good night and that his condition is encouraging for complete restoration to health, despite his advanced age.

DAUGHERTY AGAIN ATTACKED

Criticised for Methods in War Graft Prosecutions

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —Insisting ona congressional investigation of alleged laxity in the prosecution of war grafters, Representative Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, charged today that Attorney General Daugherty "has put himself in a position where he can prosecute his enemies and shield his friends if he cares to do so."

Woodruff criticized Daugherty for his statement before the house appropriations committee recently to the effect that he would not take a war fraud case into court until he was convinced, as a lawyer, that conviction could be obtained.

"In that statement," declared Woodruff, "the attorney general takes upon himself without authority of law, the function of both judge and jury. He puts himself in a position where he can choose whom he shall prosecute and can, if he sees fit, punish his enemies and protect his friends.

"In view of the statement and the fact Daugherty has been in office 14 months, without a single prosecution in war frauds cases, I am not as hopeful as some other members of congress seem to be about the results that will be obtained in the 'vigorous' round up of war criminals that is now promised."

Woodruff was silent about his plans for trying to force to a vote on the resolution introduced by himself and Representative Johnson, South Dakota Republican, providing a probe into the way war fraud cases have been handled, but he asserted that he "has not by any means given up the fight."

STATE AID ROAD WORK TO BE LET

Ten Miles in Allen-co Planned By June 1st

BIDS ASKED ON TWO DATES

Will Take Care of Two-Thirds of 1922 Program

Approximately 10 miles of state aid road in Allen-co will be let by the state highway department before June 1, it was announced by the county commissioners Thursday.

Lettings for May 19 and May 31 have been advertised. The mileage to be let on the two dates, added to what is already under contract, will round out almost two-thirds of the year's program, covering 33 1-2 miles. Slightly more than nine miles are under contract.

BIDS ON MAY 19

May 19, Sections L-1 and L-2 will be sold. The sections include a short stretch from the north end of Section K, north of Lima, sold recently; the section thru Beaverdam, and a short stretch toward Bluffton.

Letting of the work has been delayed while a previous bond issue, which provided for widening the road thru Beaverdam, was rescinded and another issue made and disposed of.

Section L-3, running on to Bluffton, is ready for bidding, but is held up on account of the railroad and electric line grade intersection at Dead Man's crossing.

Bids will be received at Columbus May 31 for all of that section of the Harding Highway from the end of the Marion-rd east of Lima to the Hardin-co line.

Engineers figure that the length of the pavement will be 8.491 miles. The width will be 18 feet, with a total roadway of 28 feet. Gravel or stone wings will widen the road to accommodate traffic when necessary.

The letting will be in four sections and will be sold in units of two. All of the road may be let to one contractor, however, provided he bids low enough.

FIVE MATERIALS NAMED

Macadam, asphalt or bituminous concrete, Kentucky rock and reinforced concrete are materials named. The road must be completed by October 1. The right is retained by the department to reject or accept any or all bids.

With the sales named, there will remain in Allen-co for letting, all of the Harding Highway thru and west of Elida, the Dixie Highway from the Garford plant south to the Auglaize-co line and a portion of the Dixie Highway north of Beaverdam.

ITALIAN FRUIT DEALER DIES OF COMPLICATION

Eugene Joseph Rossini, 45, fruit dealer and confectioner, 331 N. Main-st, died at his home, 1015 Leland-ave, Thursday at 3 a. m., from a complication of diseases. He was born in Italy and came to the United States when 12 years of age.

For some years Rossini had been engaged in the fruit business in Lima. He is survived by the widow and a son, Eugene Joseph Rossini, Jr. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the residence. Rev. Walter D. Cole will officiate. Interment in Woodlawn.

TACNA-ARICA CONFERENCE

Delegates of Chile and Peru, two South American countries, now are meeting at Washington to settle a boundary dispute that has been troubling them for the last 40 years.

This boundary dispute is known as the Tacna-Arica question because it involves two provinces, or states, known as Tacna and Arica. The conference is being held at Washington because our government is neutral, taking no sides in the dispute, and therefore the delegates can straighten out their points of difference without interference.

What is the Tacna-Arica dispute?

It started when the treaty of Ancon was signed in 1884, ending the war between Chile, on one side, and Peru and Bolivia, on the other side.

By this treaty the provinces of Tacna and Arica were given to Chile for 10 years. At the end of that 10 years, the treaty provided, a plebiscite should be held—that is, the people of Tacna and Arica should be allowed to vote and decide for themselves whether they would be ruled by Chile or Peru.

But when the 10 years were over, neither Chile nor Peru could decide just how the plebiscite should be held. So it wasn't held. Meanwhile Chile kept Tacna and Arica.

Chile and Peru kept arguing about the question until 1902 when both became angry and called home their diplomatic representatives. They have not been on friendly terms since.

After the World War the two countries tried to have their differences settled by the League of Nations, but failed.

Finally President Harding invited Chile and Peru to meet at Washington and iron out their troubles. The present meeting is the result of his invitation.

The meeting is being held in the Pan-American Union building, where many sessions of the Conference on Limitation of Armament were held last year.

GENOA CONFERENCE FAILS

The economic conference at Genoa, Italy, hoped to bring Russia back into the world as a member of the great family of nations. Ever since the Bolshevist government came into control of Russia, Russia has been cut off from the rest of the world.

But the conference has failed to bring Russia back. Russia and the other nations could not agree on terms under which Russia could work together with and trade with the rest of the world.

But hope has not been given up. Another conference will be held at The Hague, capital of Holland, especially to settle Russian affairs. A group of experts representing most European nations will meet at The Hague June 15 and talk over the Russian problem. On June 26 a group of Russian representatives will come to The Hague and the two groups will confer and try to reach an agreement.

The European nations wanted the United States to take part in this meeting at The Hague. But Charles Evans Hughes, our secretary of state, has refused to do so.

SILESIAN PROBLEM SETTLED

The Upper Silesian question which caused much trouble between Germany and Poland at last has been settled.

When the treaty of Versailles was signed at the close of the World War, it was agreed that the people of Silesia should be allowed to vote on whether they preferred to be ruled by Germany or Poland.

The vote in Upper Silesia, as a whole, favored Germany. But in the most valuable sections the vote favored Poland.

Poland demanded these valuable sections, saying Germany could have the rest. Then fighting broke out between Germans and Poles in Upper Silesia and the allies had to send troops there to keep order.

Now the League of Nations has just drawn up a treaty settling the whole Upper Silesian dispute. Former President Caloner of Switzerland was chairman of the commission that drew up the treaty.

Both Germany and Poland are willing to accept the agreement.

U. S. BENEFIT PLAN NOT WELCOMED

Chile Has Plenty of Gold of Her Own

REDEMPTION FUND AMPLE

Doesn't Favor Utilizing American Surplus Stocks

SANTIAGO — (Associated Press) — The plan discussed by American financiers to utilize surplus stocks of gold in the United States for the benefit of certain Latin-American countries with a view to aiding exchange values would not be practical for Chile, in the opinion of economists here, since she already has accumulated what is considered an ample gold conversion fund for possible redemption or stabilization of paper currency. This fund amounts to 114,000,000 gold pesos — approximately $42,000,000—part of which is held here and part in London.

The generally accepted view is that business men and industrialists in this country would welcome some practical activity toward stabilizing the paper peso, since its exchange value has experienced long periods of virtual anarchy and, in relation to the dollar, gradually has fallen from the war figure of three to one in 1919 to more than 10 to one in 1922.

COMMERCE DETRIMENT

These violent movements in exchange have been a great detriment to commerce and to invested capital and have been the cause, it is asserted, of a certain amount of commercial prejudice against the United States, due to the rise of the dollar. However, it is not thought that United States' gold would be required in the proposed regulation of exchange in order to bring about a normal resumption of trade between the two countries.

American exports to Chile in 1918, acording to figures published in La Naction, amounted to 203,000,000 gold pesos while in 1921 they were less than 100,000,000 gold pesos.

Chile has been accumulating its gold as a conversion fund against possible redumption or stabilization of its paper money for a number of years with the intention of establishing a central bank with similar functions as the Federal Reserve system in the United States. The bank would employ this gold as a reserve against a convertible and elastic paper currency.

DID HIM MORE GOOD

Many men and women suffer from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff joints, sore muscles and other results of kidney trouble because they neglected the first warning symptoms. Foley Kidney Pills aid the kidneys to throw out poisonous waste matter that causes pain and misery. Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Adv.

Six Reasons Why You Should Have a Three-Piece Suit

I.—The three-piece Suit is second to none in smartness—inspired by Paris and worn by Fifth Avenue.

II.—It is decidedly practical, combining as it does a one-piece Frock with matching coat or cape.

III.—In one of these Suits you have really three garments at the price of only one.

IV.—It is correct for any time or any place—a costume especially desirable for traveling.

V.—It is a year-around garment for matron or miss that can be worn in practically all seasons.

VI.—You can purchase a Feldman model of exceptional quality now at a very moderate price.

THREE-PIECE SUITS have taken the fashion world by storm. The smartly dressed woman adopted them at once because of their wonderful possibilities. Developed in navy blue, by far the most desirable color, they combine with Canton crepe in rust, sand, China blue and other smart tones, making striking effects. They are fashioned of the finest of tricotine, picotine and Poiret Twill.

PENNSYLVANIA TURNS TRICK

INDIANA pointed the way and now Pennsylvania has duplicated the trick by taking a slap at the present administration. Pennsylvania is a strong Republican state, much given to standpatism, where a Progressive usually has about as much show as the proverbial snowball in the home of Beelzebub.

Organization candidates usually go thru in primary elections, but the Progressive infection appears to be about as strong in Pennsylvania as was previously demonstrated in Indiana and in other states. Gifford Pinchot, ardent follower of Roosevelt, has been nominated for Governor over G E Alter, the organization candidate. The result, while not unanticipated, is of such consequence as to add to the gloom of official Washington following the Indiana primary, when Albert Beveridge, Progressive leader, decisively defeated Harry New, administration candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator

The Pennsylvania result is amazing in the nomination of Pinchot for Governor, in view of the fact that George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, appointed by Governor Sproul to fill the unexpired term of Boise Penrose, in the United States Senate, was nominated over Congressman-at-Large William J. Burke of Pittsburgh. Governor Sproul was also back of the Alter candidacy James A. McSperran, head of the state grange, has been nominated by the Democrats to oppose Pinchot for Governor

A CIRCUSLESS SUMMER

IT IS doubtful if there is anything that brings more joy to the hearts of the youngsters than an announcement that a circus is coming to town. Young America craves the excitement of circus day just the same as it eagerly listens to the music of a brass band—no matter how bad the music may be

Lima was formerly a favorite city for big circuses. In past years the Barnum & Bailey, Ringling Bros, Hagenback & Wallace, the John Robinson and other monster road shows "made" Lima regularly. During the summer of 1921 hearts of Lima kiddies were sad. This city was passed up when the mayor put into effect a prohibitory license fee and announced restrictive measures that impelled the circus kings to give Lima a wide berth.

Those who oppose a circus coming to town are accredited as joy killers by Young America. The blow dealt in 1921 against circuses is still having its effect. According to information from City Hall, there have been no applications filed for permits to bring big tent shows to Lima this season. About the only way Lima can stage a "comeback" is to offer lower license and other concessions that are usually prolific of a run of "world's greatest evers"

THE POORHOUSE

ABOLISH the poorhouse by pensioning the aged That is the slogan of Judge Thomas O'Donnell of Kansas City.

No one with a heart can oppose him Great Britain, France and New Zealand have old-age pensions, following the new trail blazed by Denmark in 1891.

Unfortunate, that anyone ever needs a pension in old age For ones who do, it should be provided.

You like, of course, both sides of a question. The other side to this is that paternalism destroys initiative and the incentive to thrift As always, the best system would be a happy medium providing for the aged unlucky, but not enough to tempt the majority to stop saving to provide for themselves.

ALL CLOUDS DON'T SPELL BAD WEATHER

MEMORIAL DAY

ALTHO the close of the civil war came nearly 60 years ago, following the surrender of General Lee to General Grant, at Appomattox Court House, memory of the stirring incidents has not been altogether eliminated. And while there still remain only a handful of the "Boys in Blue," compared with the vast army that fought for the preservation of the Union, the sentiment that clings to Memorial Day is not lessened.

The war of later years, when the boys of the north and south, side by side, drove the oppressor out of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, added the numbers of its organizations to the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. and other patriotic bodies in carrying on the annual observance of Memorial Day or Decoration Day.

Still later, the American Legion, the youth of all parts of this land who crossed the wide ocean and fought on bloody fields that the world might be saved from oppression and domination by a war-mad monarch, have added their numbers to the ranks of the Boys of 1861-'65 and the Boys of 1898.

Now a mighty force is provided, assuring that Memorial Day will go on indefinitely as a fixed American institution—a day that demands an expression of the liveliest sentiments of loyalty and patriotism. Memorial Day 1922 in Lima and Allen-co will be observed more generally than heretofore. The soldiers of the Civil war, the Spanish-American war and the World war will march together. The graves of their comrades will be garlanded. In speech and song they will be honored in memory.

Cheers for the living; tears for the dead. It is the American spirit.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

By BERTON BRALEY.

THE FLAPPER

She isn't afraid of the old Taboos,
Of dead conventions and ancient views,
She faces the world with a perky grin
And a confident tilt to her dimpled chin,
And the old heads wag and the old tongues clatter,
But she doesn't care for the stuff they chatter,
She knows her actions are being flayed
But not for a minute is she afraid!

She isn't afraid of the shapes of wrath,
The frowning idols that line her path,
Her eyes are open, and tho she makes
Mistakes enough—they are her mistakes
And not the blunders of "older heads"
Filled full of cautions and doubts and dreads;
Not always wisely her game is played
But never a moment is she afraid!

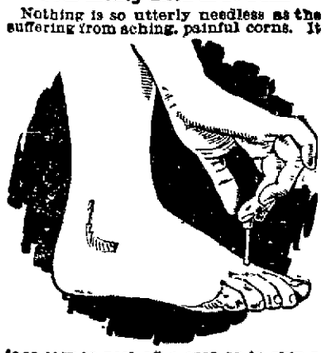

She shocks the elders with joyous verve
Until they quiver in every nerve,
But altogether I think the kid
Will do as well as her parents did;
Better perhaps, for we must confess
Her elders bungled things more or less;
Under the banners of youth arrayed
She faces the universe—unafraid!

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

HEART OF A CHILD

Many cases of "heart disease" which don't make themselves apparent until later years begin their development during the school period.

The average child begins school at 6. He is transplanted from the environment of home to that of school, from the individual care of the mother to the divided care of the busy teacher. He is put more or less "on his own" He is subjected to a greater discipline and does not always get "what he wants when he wants it" He has responsibilities of study and competition He is in one sense "let loose" and becomes more active—almost perpetual motion itself. Greater exposure, contact, activity mean greater possibilities of strain, fatigue and infection. Thus "heart disease" gets its start in children not too strongly constituted It is estimated that 2 1-2 per cent of children of school age have heart disease

Examinations show a gradual increase in heart disease from 8 to 14 years of age, slightly higher in girls than in boys The percentage is slightly higher among high school pupils than among those of elementary schools

The gradual increase from 8 to 14, may be accounted for as follows:

1 The existence of abnormal or diseased tonsils, and adenoids.

2 The greater amount of dental decay and pulp infections found in older children

3. The fact that older children engage in more violent exercise, with resultant greater exposure and more frequent respiratory illnesses, especially influenza.

4. The greater amount of improper and irregular feeding of older children, resulting in lowered vitality.

All these causes suggest their own preventive measures—tonsils and adenoids, gi tion to dental and nas maintenance of a proper nutrition, the establishm health habits,—mastica ventilation, exercise, res air.

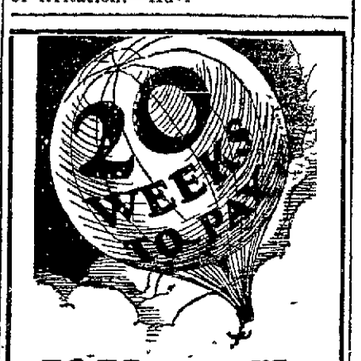

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

Fleischmann's fresh yeast

helps digestion and cleans a coated tongue

THOUSANDS of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive system. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or, if you prefer, in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and malted milks. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Get Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily from your grocer.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

MY friend and I are not on very good terms as you might call it and I am asking your advice. It will be two weeks ago Sunday night that it started. I had his fraternity pin and lost it. He has not seen me wear it lately, so he took it for granted that I had given it to some other friend and would not believe me. He asked me for it but I could not give it to him. We quarreled all that evening. The next day I bought him a pin and thought that would be the end of our quarreling, but it wasn't. He is jealous and when he went with me steady I did not go with other men and he knows it. But he teases me about going with other men and his going with other girls. My parents tell me to be independent, but I cannot do it. I love him too well to let him go. What can I do? I think he likes me, too, but he sure doesn't act it sometimes.

BOBBY

YOUR mistake, "Bobby," was in not confessing to your friend the fact that you had lost his pin immediately after discovering your unfortunate situation. You naturally felt badly about it. It is extremely humiliating and embarrassing when one loses something which is very valuable to another, but in order to avoid trouble, one should be prompt in making an honest confession.

Your friend also deserves censure for the attitude he has adopted. He revealed an ungentlemanly and rude spirit. It is very easy for one to lose things and even tho it may be thru carelessness, quarrelling will not bring it back.

The only thing you can do is to apologize, as you doubtless have done, for your carelessness in losing the pin. If your friend is not man enough to accept your apology and overlook the unfortunate affair, his friendship is certainly not one to be valued.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) Will you please advise me as to whether it is more successful to marry a girl younger or older than yourself? (2) Do you believe in love at first sight?

WORRIED

(1) Really, I suppose that the successfulness of marriages is not determined by the ages of the couple concerned, but more by the sincere and deep love which they hold for each other. However, it is usually wiser for a man to marry a girl younger than himself. One generally thinks of the husband as the protector and provider. The theme of popular fiction books and the plot in many of the most interesting movies often centers around "love at first sight," so there really must be such a thing.

TABLE COVERS

Cut-out figures from chintz or silk are sometimes applied with good effect on coarse linen and used to make table covers and pillows for the summer cottage.

NEWEST PUMPS

The newest pumps show a decided preference for a one-sided trimming in the form of a small rhinestone buckle used instead of a button to fasten the strap.

DYED LACE

Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the frock, is used on many of the summer organdies.

DELICATE DESIGNS

LEARN A WORD A DAY

TODAY'S word is HAGUE, THE (this proper noun being preceded always, according to correct English usage, by the article).

It's pronounced—hag, with the "a" as in "age" and the "g" as in "egg."

It is—the capital of Holland.

In its original Dutch form it means—the count's garden, the city's present site having been once the place of residence of the Counts of Holland.

It's used like this—The Genoa conference is to be transferred to The Hague, where deliberations will be resumed June 15.

FLAPPER AUDACITY!

The original barn, once a vast and elegant shelter for a rich man's carriages, had been improved by the addition of a stage. This wing was Mr. Tearle's first contribution to the dramatic art of his city.

"Entrancing — as always!" she exclaimed. "Better than the play!"

The chairs of teh auditorium were piled high against the walls. All activities incident to staging a drama were in progress.

Two sewing machines had been put in the best light and two Norse maids, belonging to the Viking cast, set them to whirring madly during every pause in the rehearsal. The costumes for all parts were designed and made by members of the company.

Below the stage stood a pressing board, placed horizontally on two chair backs, the flatiron connected with a socket in the footlights. And upon the ironing board rested the director's megaphone, while he listened to the actors on the stage. I suppose Judge Ballou never before had been in touch with a laundry utensil.

Scattered in heaps upon the floor and tossed over chair backs were half finished costumes and a quantity of uncut flannelette of all colors, and scores of water color designs.

Suddenly Jeanne exclaimed:

"Look at Bonny!"

"I don't see how anybody could overlook her!" I replied. "She's the most astonishing note in this amazing jumble!"

"She's dressed for a dance," whispered Jeanne. I murmured that from our point of view she hardly seemed to be dressed at all. That audacious flapper was seated at a kitchen table, a stage "prop" which the publicity people had requisitioned for a writing desk.

"What's she up to?" queried Jack.

"Addressing envelopes, announcements of the production," I told him. "Looks absorbed, doesn't she? Well, she isn't. LINDA LEE, INC.

By LOUISE JOSEPH VANCE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Youth, beauty, social position, and sincere love—these were not sufficient to hold the affection of BELLAMY DRUCE, cursed with an appetite for cheap flirtations and expensive liquor. The decision to leave him came when his wife, LUCINDA DRUCE, having tolerated a series of escapades and received his promise to reform, discovered him intoxicated and dancing with a woman of disrepute in a Broadway cabaret.

On the eve of her departure, Lucinda renews an old acquaintance with FANNY LONTAINE and learns that her husband is thinking of forming a motion picture company in California. With them, she visits the New York studio of Alma Daley and takes a great interest in the screen life. Then comes her break with Bellamy and a sudden departure to Chicago where she is visited by her lawyer, HARFORD WILLIS. Lucinda refuses to return to her husband.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I see you are beginning to formulate a philosophy of life. You will need it, my dear, if you mean to fight this out alone. Philosophy is good medicine only for lonely hearts. The others it merely hardens."

Lucinda eyed Willis sharply. "Bel has been to see you."

"He looked me up." Willis admitted in mild surprise, "two days after your disappearance, thinking you might have communicated with me. Of course, I could tell him nothing. But how did you know—?"

"That suggestion, the underlying thought that I might not be intending to fight out my fight alone—that originated with Bel, didn't it?"

"Well!" Willis stammered, trying to smile disarmingly—"I confess—"

"It wasn't enough, of course, that I should have found Bel out for the dozenth time, there had to be a lover in my background to account for my leaving him! Did he mention any name?"

Willis made a negative sign. "Bellamy didn't imply—he merely said he was afraid—"

"It doesn't matter. What else did he dare to say?"

"He seemed most remorseful—"

"I know how remorseful Bel can seem."

"He spoke of employing detectives to trace you."

"It wouldn't do Bel any good to see me; it would only irritate him to find I could hold out against a plea he made in person."

Willis sighed, and renounced—"if you must, you must, I presume; and I will do my best to serve your wishes, my dear. Only tell me how . . ."

"Why, naturally, I want to get the divorce over with as quickly and quietly as possible, with the minimum amount of public scandal."

"The laws of the State of Nevada are most liberal. But it would be necessary for you to establish a legal residence by living there six months."

"I suppose that's unavoidable."

"I will look up the most reputable firm of lawyers there, and recommend you to them. If you are in need of other advice, you need only write or telegraph, and if the emergency requires it, I will come out to confer with you."

"I hope I won't have to impose on your kindness to that extent."

Willis blinked, removed the gold-rimmed pince-nez of his fading day, and polished the lenses with a silk handkerchief.

"And now," he pursued—"if you don't mind satisfying an inquisitive old man—I would very much like to

Lucinda jumped up and turned away with a quaver of desolation.

"Ah, I wish you hadn't asked me! That's what I'm trying all the time to forget—"

"I thought so."

"The emptiness to come! . . . What can a woman do to round out her life when she's lost her husband and is fit for nothing but to be a wife?"

"She can find another husband. Many do."

"Marry again!" A violent movement of Lucinda's hands abolished the thought. "Never that! I'm thru with love for good and all."

"No doubt," agreed the student of law and life. "But are you sure that love is thru with you?"

XIII

Willis left for New York on a late afternoon train; and when Lucinda had said goodby to him at the station, she felt as if she had parted with her one real friend in all the world.

She applied for transportation and a drawing-room thru to Reno but learned that the winter stampede of California tourists was in full westward swing. The best the agent could do was to book Lucinda thru to San Francisco with a section to herself on the California Limited leaving the next night, arranging for her to return from San Francisco to Reno, a trip of some eleven hours.

Returning to the hotel about five, she was approaching the elevators when, midway in the foyer, she stopped shock still, transfixed by the sight of Bellamy standing at the registry desk, in earnest consultation with one of the clerks.

Apparently Bellamy had just learned what he wanted to know; Lucinda recognized the backward jerk of the head that was an unfailing sign of gratification in him, and saw him turn away from the desk. Galvanized, she hurled herself toward one of the elevator shafts, the gate to which was even then being closed.

When she entered her room the telephone was calling. She locked the door; and for as long as it continued to ring, which it did for upwards of five minutes. At length she gave it up as a bad job, and she sank limply into a chair near the door, till a knock brought her to her feet in a flutter.

"Your bill, ma'm."

When she forced herself to turn key and knob, she more than half expected to see her husband. But the bellboy was alone. Lucinda took the bill and counted out the money.

"Take those bags, please," she said, indicating the new dressing-case and the bag which she had brought from New York, "put them in a taxi at the door, and hold it till I come down."

Running out into the hall, she found the stairs and pelted up two flights. One of the elevators was rising. It stopped two floors below, then came on up in response to her ring.

"Did you let somebody out at my floor?"

"Yes, ma'm, a gempman."

"Take me down, please, without stopping."

The car dropped with sickening rapidity, and she stepped out into the foyer in consternation when Bel placed himself before her, blocking her way to the street.

Her heart checked and raced, she was oddly at once aghast and elated even when sober?"

His hand dropped to his side. Lucinda began to walk rapidly toward the street entrance, but had taken few steps when Bellamy ranged alongside.

"Linda; you've got to listen to me! There's something I've got to tell you—"

"I mean to go to Reno, as soon as you let me pass."

Bellamy's eyes narrowed as if in physical pain. He threw out a hand of inarticulate protest, and let it fall in despair. Subduing a strong desire to bolt for it, Lucinda began to descend at a pace not inconsistent with dignity. At the same time sensitiveness to the situation, the feeling that they had been playing a scene of intimate domestic drama for the edification of an entire hotel, made her aware that the young man whose interest had first manifested near the elevator followed across the foyer and was now standing at the head of the steps, over across from Bellamy.

Pushing thru the door, she breathed thankfully the stinging winter air. The canopy lamps made the sidewalk bright, and she discovered her bellboy shivering by the open door of a taxicab.

Abandoning all pretence, Lucinda ran. The bellboy caught her arm to help her into the cab and chattered: "W-where t-t-to, m'm?" She was prevented from answering by Bel, who elbowed the boy aside and caught her by the shoulders.

"No!" he cried violently. "No, you shan't—d'you hear?—you shan't go without listening to me!"

By some means, she did not know quite how, Lucinda broke out of his hands and stepped back.

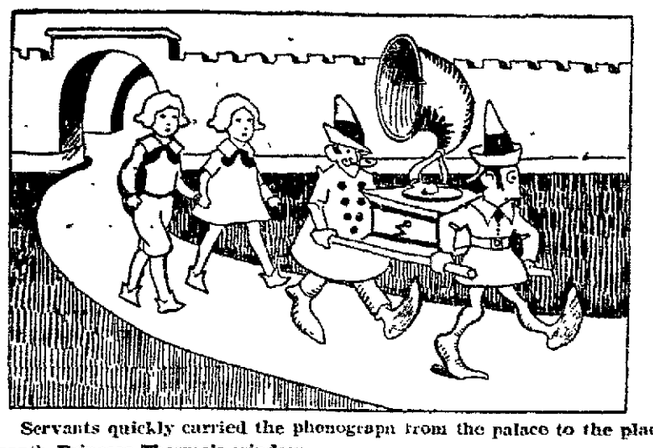

"Let me alone!" she insisted. "Let me—"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE MAGIC RECORD

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Servants quickly carried the phonograph from the palace to the place beneath Princess Therma's window where the kings were waiting.

"Silence!" cried the furious falcon from the tree-top. "We shall now hear the words for which we have waited so long."

The machine was wound and the needle put in place. Everybody held his breath. There was a faint buzzing. Then came the voice of wise old Longhead: "Both kings are imposters. Neither shall marry the Princess Therma. The true kings are bewitched. Let the false kings try their skill at shooting and my words will be proven true. Only true kings can shoot straight."

"It's a lie!" shouted King Indig. "Bring me my bow!"

"It's false!" roared King Verdo. "Bring me my arrows."

"What shall be the target?" cried everyone.

"The dove at your window," cried King Indig.

"Agreed!" said King Verdo.

"Oh, no, no, no!" cried Nancy in alarm. "Please don't."

"Yes," cried out the falcon. "Let the dove be the mark."

So it was settled.

King Indig shot first, but his arrow was so crooked it whizzed around in circles and disappeared in the sky.

"Oh!" moaned the Diddyevvers.

King Verdo shot next, but his bow was so crooked that his arrow went straight into the ground.

"Oh," moaned the Korsknotts in sorrow for their king.

"And now," cried out the furious falcon, "turn the other side of the record and learn the truth, good people. You shall know all, for Longhead has yet more to say."

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial—now.

However Your Washing is Done

The same qualities that make Rinso an ideal soap in any washing machine make it the best soap you can use whatever way you do the family wash.

THE APEX ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTING CO.

ROTAREX (Home Double Roll Ironer) apex (Electric Suction Cleaner) ROTAREX (Electric Clothes Washer)

FACTORY AND GENERAL OFFICES CLEVELAND, OHIO

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen: We are advising women who buy the Rotarex to use Rinso.

We have tried out Rinso and other soaps—many of them good—in our machine, but for all round satisfaction we recommend Rinso.

We look first for the effect of a soap on the cylinder and lining of the machine. Many soaps are too harsh both for the machine and for the clothes. In repeated tests Rinso showed no sign of harming either in the slightest degree.

Rinso softened the dirt to such an extent that the clothes were washed spotlessly clean in an appreciably shorter period than was the case with other soaps. This is undoubtedly because Rinso is so readily and completely soluble.

Our tests have convinced us that Rinso and the Rotarex are an ideal combination.

Very truly yours,
THE APEX ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTING COMPANY

C. G. Francis
President

NOTE: In hard water it takes from ¾ to 1 package (regular size) of Rinso to a tub to make good suds. In very hard water you will need from 1¼ to 2 packages to a tub to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt.

The makers of noted Rotarex Washers advise women to use Rinso

A WASHING machine can be mechanically perfect—yet not give entire satisfaction if the wrong kind of soap is used.

The leading washing machine manufacturers of this country, realizing this, have made exhaustive tests and are recommending Rinso for the family wash. Read what one of them says about the use of Rinso in the Rotarex.

When you put your clothes to soak

Dissolve Rinso in boiling water—use enough to get big lasting suds. Then let your clothes soak an hour or more—over night if you like—(colored clothes only half an hour). Soaking in big lukewarm Rinso suds softens all the dirt.

In any washing machine

Use enough Rinso solution to make a heavy suds. Operate your machine from 10 to 15 minutes. Rinso is the ideal soap for machine washing.

If you boil

Boiling isn't necessary, but if you like to boil your white cottons pour enough Rinso solution in the boiler to give you the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world. It comes in the regular size and the big new package. Get it today—at grocery and department stores everywhere. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

MY friend and I are not on very good terms as you might call it and I am asking your advice. It will be two weeks ago Sunday night that it started. I had his fraternity pin and lost it. He has not seen me wear it lately, so he took it for granted that I had given it to some other friend and would not believe me. He asked me for it but I could not give it to him. We quarreled all that evening. The next day I bought him a pin and thought that would be the end of our quarreling, but it wasn't. He is jealous and when he went with me steady I did not go with other men and he knows it. But he teases me about going with other men and his going with other girls. My parents tell me to be independent, but I cannot do it. I love him too well to let him go. What can I do? I think he likes me, too, but he sure doesn't act it sometimes.

BOBBY

YOUR mistake, "Bobby," was in not confessing to your friend the fact that you had lost his pin immediately after discovering your unfortunate situation. You naturally felt badly about it. It is extremely humiliating and embarrassing when one loses something which is very valuable to another, but in order to avoid trouble, one should be prompt in making an honest confession.

Your friend also deserves censure for the attitude he has adopted. He revealed an ungentlemanly and rude spirit. It is very easy for one to lose things and even tho it may be thru carelessness, quarrelling will not bring it back.

The only thing you can do is to apologize, as you doubtless have done, for your carelessness in losing the pin. If your friend is not man enough to accept your apology and overlook the unfortunate affair, his friendship is certainly not one to be valued.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) Will you please advise me as to whether it is more successful to marry a girl younger or older than yourself? (2) Do you believe in love at first sight?

WORRIED

(1) Really, I suppose that the successfulness of marriages is not determined by the ages of the couple concerned, but more by the sincere and deep love which they hold for each other. However, it is usually wiser for a man to marry a girl younger than himself. One generally thinks of the husband as the protector and provider. The theme of popular fiction books and the plot in many of the most interesting movies often centers around "love at first sight," so there really must be such a thing

TABLE COVERS

Cut-out figures from chints or silk are sometimes applied with good effect on coarse linen and used to make table covers and pillows for the summer cottage.

NEWEST PUMPS

The newest pumps show a decided preference for a one-sided trimming in the form of a small rhinestone buckle used instead of a button to fasten the strap.

DYED LACE

Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the frock, is used on many of the summer organdies.

DELICATE DESIGNS

LEARN A WORD A DAY

TODAY'S word is HAGUE, THE (this proper noun being preceded always, according to correct English usage, by the article).

It's pronounced—hag, with the "a" as in "age" and the "g" as in "egg."

It is—the capital of Holland.

In its original Dutch form it means—the count's garden, the city's present site having been once the place of residence of the Counts of Holland.

It's used like this—The Genoa conference is to be transferred to The Hague, where deliberations will be resumed June 15.

FLAPPER AUDACITY!

The original barn, once a vast and elegant shelter for a rich man's carriages, had been improved by the addition of a stage. This wing was Mr. Tearle's first contribution to the dramatic art of his city.

"Entrancing — as always!" she exclaimed. "Better than the play!"

The chairs of teh auditorium were piled high against the walls. All activities incident to staging a drama were in progress.

Two sewing machines had been put in the best light and two Norse maids, belonging to the Viking cast, set them to whirring madly during every pause in the rehearsal. The costumes for all parts were designed and made by members of the company.

Below the stage stood a pressing board, placed horizontally on two chair backs, the flatiron connected with a socket in the footlights. And upon the ironing board rested the director's megaphone, also the directors' elbows, while he listened to the actors on the stage. I suppose Judge Ballou never before had been in touch with a laundry utensil.

Scattered in heaps upon the floor and tossed over chair backs were half finished costumes and a quantity of uncut flannelette of all colors, and scores of water color designs.

Suddenly Jeanne exclaimed:

"Look at Bonny!"

"I don't see how anybody could overlook her!" I replied. "She's the most astonishing note in this amazing jumble!"

"She's dressed for a dance," whispered Jeanne. I murmured that from our point of view she hardly seemed to be dressed at all. That audacious flapper was seated at a kitchen table, a stage "prop" which the publicity people had requisitioned for a writing desk.

"What's she up to?" queried Jack.

"Addressing envelopes, announcements of the production," I told him. "Looks absorbed, doesn't she? Well, she isn't. LINDA LEE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Youth, beauty, social position, and sincere love—these were not sufficient to hold the affection of WILLIS BELLAMY DRUCE, cursed with an appetite for cheap flirtations and expensive liquor. The decision to leave him came when his wife, LUCINDA DRUCE, having tolerated a series of escapades and received his promise to reform, discovered him intoxicated and dancing with a woman of ill repute in a Broadway cabaret. On the eve of her departure, Lucinda renews an old acquaintance with FANNY LONTAINE, and learns that her husband is thinking of forming a motion picture company in California With them, she visits the New York studio of Alma Dalev and takes a great interest in the screen life. Then comes her break with Bellamy and a sudden departure to Chicago where she is visited by her lawyer, HARFORD WILLIS. Lucinda refuses to return to her husband.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I see you are beginning to formulate a philosophy of life You will need it, my dear, if you mean to fight this out alone. Philosophy is good medicine only for lonely hearts. The others it merely hardens."

Lucinda eyed Willis sharply. "Bel has been to see you."

"He looked me up." Willis admitted in mild surprise, "two days after your disappearance, thinking you might have communicated with me. Of course, I could tell him nothing. But how did you know—?"

"That suggestion, the underlying thought that I might not be intending to fight out my fight alone—that originated with Bel, didn't it?"

"Well!" Willis stammered, trying to smile disarmingly—"I confess—"

"It wasn't enough, of course, that I should have found Bel out for the dozenth time, there had to be a lover in my background to account for my leaving him! Did he mention any name?"

Willis made a negative sign. "Bellamy didn't imply—he merely said he was afraid—"

"It doesn't matter. What else did he dare to say?"

"He seemed most remorseful—"

"I know how remorseful Bel can seem."

"He spoke of employing detectives to trace you."

"It wouldn't do Bel any good to see me; it would only irritate him to find I could hold out against a plea he made in person."

Willis sighed, and renounced—"if you must, you must, I presume; and I will do my best to serve your wishes, my dear. Only tell me how . . ."

"Why, naturally, I want to get the divorce over with as quickly and quietly as possible, with the minimum amount of public scandal."

"The laws of the State of Nevada are most liberal. But it would be necessary for you to establish a legal residence by living there six months."

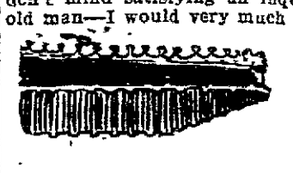

"I suppose that's unavoidable."

"I will look up the most reputable firm of lawyers there, and recommend you to them. If you are in need of other advice, you need only write or telegraph, and if the emergency requires it, I will come out to confer with you."

"I hope I won't have to impose on your kindness to that extent."

Willis blinked, removed the gold-rimmed pince-nez of his fading day, and polished the lenses with a silk handkerchief.

"And now," he pursued—"if you don't mind satisfying an inquisitive old man—I would very much like to

Lucinda jumped up and turned away with a quaver of desolation.

"Ah, I wish you hadn't asked me! That's what I'm trying all the time to forget—"

"I thought so."

"The emptiness to come! . . . What can a woman do to round out her life when she's lost her husband and is fit for nothing but to be a wife?"

"She can find another husband. Many do."

"Marry again!" A violent movement of Lucinda's hands abolished the thought. "Never that! I'm thru with love for good and all."

"No doubt," agreed the student of law and life. "But are you sure that love is thrú with you?"

XIII

She applied for transportation and a drawing-room thru to Reno but learned that the winter stampede of California tourists was in full westward swing. The best the agent could do was to book Lucinda thru to San Francisco with a section to herself on the California Limited leaving the next night, arranging for her to return from San Francisco to Reno, a trip of some eleven hours.

Returning to the hotel about five, she was approaching the elevators when, midway in the foyer, she stopped shock still, transfixed by the sight of Bellamy standing at the registry desk, in earnest consultation with one of the clerks.

Apparently Bellamy had just learned what he wanted to know; Lucinda recognized the backward jerk of the head that was an unfailing sign of gratification in him, and saw him turn away from the desk. Galvanized, she hurled herself toward one of the elevator shafts, the gate to which was even then being closed.

When she entered her room the telephone was calling. She locked the door; and for as long as it continued to ring, which it did for upwards of five minutes. At length she gave it up as a bad job, and she sank limply into a chair near the door, till a knock brought her to her feet in a flutter.

"Your bill, ma'm."

When she forced herself to turn key and knob, she more than half expected to see her husband. But the bellboy was alone. Lucinda took the bill and counted out the money.

"Take those bags, please," she said, indicating the new dressing-case and the bag which she had brought from New York, "put them in a taxi at the door, and hold it till I come down."

Running out into the hall, she found the stairs and pelted up two flights. One of the elevators was rising. It stopped two floors below, then came on up in response to her ring.

"Did you let somebody out at my floor?"

"Yes, ma'm, a gempman."

"Take me down, please, without stopping."

The car dropped with sickening rapidity, and she stepped out into the foyer in consternation when Bel placed himself before her, blocking her way to the street.

Her heart checked and raced, she was oddly at once aghast and elated. Subconsciously she had wanted to see Bel, face to face, to see how he looked, how her flight had affected him.

Tho he seemed to be quite himself, his face looked thinner, his eyes a trifle more deeply set in his head; and there was new firmness in the set of his mouth.

In this new guise, the old appeal was strong. For a space of several beats her heart misgave her.

In a matter-of-course way Bel offered a hand, and Lucinda touched it mechanically.

"Sorry, Linda, if I disappointed you, but thought I recognized your hand-bag being carried to the door, and waited for this car to come down on the off-chance . . ."

"I see," she articulated with an effort.

"You can give me a few minutes, surely."

"Bel: I tell you it's too late."

Struggling to keep his temper, Bel caught his underlip between his teeth, while Lucinda cast witlessly about for some way of escape. None offered. But she noticed that a young man standing nearby was observing them with keen interest, a rather brilliantly good-looking young man, brilliantly well dressed. As Lucinda's glance rested transiently on him, his face brightened with a tentative smile, and she thought he started as if he were impulsively moved to approach. If so, he reconsidered instantly. With a frown she looked back to Bel.

He made a gesture of entreaty. "You can't put me off like this, Linda, when I've come so far, gone thru so much—"

"I can because I must. Bel—I will."

"No, by God! you can't and shan't!"

He caught her arm lightly as she tried to pass. She stopped, her face hardening.

"Are you going to make another scene, publicly disgrace me again even when sober?"

His hand dropped to his side. Lucinda began to walk rapidly toward the street entrance, but had taken few steps when Bellamy ranged alongside.

"Linda; you've got to listen to me! There's something I've got to tell you—"

"I mean to go to Reno, as soon as you let me pass."

Bellamy's eyes narrowed as if in physical pain. He threw out a hand of inarticulate protest, and let it fall in despair. Subduing a strong desire to bolt for it, Lucinda began to descend at a pace not inconsistent with dignity. At the same time sensitiveness to the situation, the feeling that they had been playing a scene of intimate domestic drama for the edification of an entire hotel, made her aware that the young man whose interest had first manifested near the elevator followed across the foyer and was now standing at the head of the steps, over across from Bellamy.

Pushing thru the door, she breathed thankfully the stinging winter air. The canopy lamps made the sidewalk bright, and she discovered her bellboy shivering by the open door of a taxicab.

Abandoning all pretence, Lucinda ran. The bellboy caught her arm to help her into the cab and chattered: "W-where t-t-to, m'm?" She was prevented from answering by Bel, who elbowed the boy aside and caught her by the shoulders.

"No!" he cried violently. "No, you shan't—d'you hear?—you shan't go without listening to me!"

By some means, she did not know quite how, Lucinda broke out of his hands and stepped back.

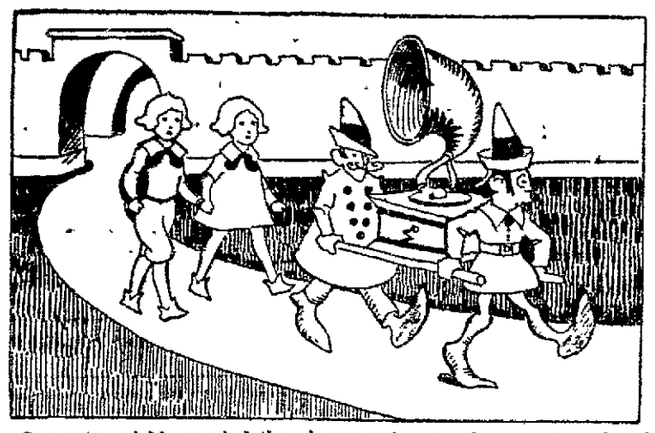

"Let me alone!" she insisted. "Let me—"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE MAGIC RECORD

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Servants quickly carried the phonograph from the palace to the place beneath Princess Therma's window where the kings were waiting.

"Silence!" cried the furious falcon from the tree-top. "We shall now hear the words for which we have waited so long."

The machine was wound and the needle put in place. Everybody held his breath. There was a faint buzzing. Then came the voice of wise old Longhead: "Both kings are imposters. Neither shall marry the Princess Therma. The true kings are bewitched. Let the false kings try their skill at shooting and my words will be proven true. Only true kings can shoot straight."

"It's a lie!" shouted King Indig. "Bring me my bow!"

"It's false!" roared King Verdo. "Bring me my arrows."

"What shall be the target?" cried everyone.

"Agreed!" said King Verdo.

"Yes," cried out the falcon. "Let the dove be the mark."

So it was settled.

King Indig shot first, but his arrow was so crooked it whizzed around in circles and disappeared in the sky.

"Oh!" moaned the Diddyevvers.

King Verdo shot next, but his bow was so crooked that his arrow went straight into the ground.

"Oh," moaned the Korasnotts in sorrow for their king.

"And now," cried out the furious falcon, "turn the other side of the record and learn the truth, good people. You shall know all, for Longhead has yet more to say."

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along, I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial—now.

However Your Washing is Done

The same qualities that make Rinso an ideal soap in any washing machine make it the best soap you can use whatever way you do the family wash.

THE APEX ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTING CO.

ROTAREX — Apex — ROTAREX

FACTORY AND GENERAL OFFICES CLEVELAND, OHIO

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen: We are advising women who buy the Rotarex to use Rinso.

We have tried out Rinso and other soaps—many of them good—in our machine, but for all round satisfaction we recommend Rinso.

We look first for the effect of a soap on the cylinder and lining of the machine. Many soaps are too harsh both for the machine and for the clothes. In repeated tests Rinso showed no sign of harming either in the slightest degree.

Rinso softened the dirt to such an extent that the clothes were washed spotlessly clean in an appreciably shorter period than was the case with other soaps. This is undoubtedly because Rinso is so readily and completely soluble.

Our tests have convinced us that Rinso and the Rotarex are an ideal combination.

Very truly yours,
THE APEX ELECTRICAL DISTRIBUTING COMPANY

C. G. Francis
President

NOTE: In hard water it takes from ¾ to 1 package (regular size) of Rinso to a tub to make good suds. In very hard water you will need from 1½ to 2 packages to a tub to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt.

The makers of noted Rotarex Washers advise women to use Rinso

A WASHING machine can be mechanically perfect—yet not give entire satisfaction if the wrong kind of soap is used.

The leading washing machine manufacturers of this country, realizing this, have made exhaustive tests and are recommending Rinso for the family wash. Read what one of them says about the use of Rinso in the Rotarex.

When you put your clothes to soak

Dissolve Rinso in boiling water—use enough to get big lasting suds. Then let your clothes soak an hour or more—over night if you like—(colored clothes only half an hour). Soaking in big lukewarm Rinso suds softens all the dirt.

In any washing machine

Use enough Rinso solution to make a heavy suds. Operate your machine from 10 to 15 minutes. Rinso is the ideal soap for machine washing.

If you boil

Boiling isn't necessary, but if you like to boil your white cottons pour enough Rinso solution in the boiler to give you the suds you like.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world. It comes in the regular size and the big new package. Get it today—at grocery and department stores everywhere. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

CONTINENT VAMPIRE TURNS HUSBANDS TO GOLD

(By ESTHER WAGNER)

SOMEWHERE in the desert fastnesses of French North Africa lies a hidden continent, the inhabitants of which have lived shut off from the world 7,000 years.

There reigns heavenly y-clept Antinea, of form divine and eye hypnotic. A legion of vassals protect her in all her ancient glory. Whenever a man of stately bearing and handsome face passes the desert at the bounds of her sovereignty, her servants capture him and bring him before her.

No man who has thus been lured into this hidden kingdom has ever been known to return until recently when one Lieutenant Saint-Avit of the French army came back to tell of his harrowing experiences.

Saint-Avit was accompanied by Captain Morhange when he entered the kingdom. While awaiting an audience with Antinea they were shown the Hall of Red Marble.

There, in serried rows, stood 24 golden mummies, each a former husband of Antinea. Antinea, it seems, possesses a process that turns the body to gold immediately after death.

Antinea, also possesses physical charms that hopelessly ensnare a man onces he gazes upon her. But she soon tires of men—witness the 24 golden mummies.

Of such fanciful fabric is woven the story of "Missing Husbands," by which American title is known the screen version of Pierre Benoit's "L'Atlantide."

This is one of th best pictures that has yet come to America from France. It was adapted and directed by Jacques Feyder.

Stacia Napierkowska, in the role of Antinea, may not cause many American husbands to be missing from home for long but she does present the popular European conception of a vampire.

Marie Louise Iribe, feminine lead in "Missing Husbands." Below, she connives with the hero to free him of the vampire.

"Snowblind" Is Week-Ending at the Lyric

THE three main requisites of a good photoplay, an absorbing story, fine acting and photography, seem to be embodied in the picture "Snowblind" making its appearance today at the Lyric theatre. And because the play has the aforesaid requisites, we hereby attach to it the cognomen of a thoroly pleasing picture.

The locale, as you will have guessed, is laid in the Canadian northwest, where, in a hidden cabin, lives a fugitve from the law, with his young brother and a strange, weird and silent woman, who has been the brother's nurse since childhood.

Fear and isolation, it seems, have made the man brutal and brooding, but all the same, he is adored by the boy Pete, and the woman who is called Bella.

Enter the love element. One day while on a lonely tramp thru the woods, the man comes across a girl girl who has gone snowblind. She has left the barnstorming company with which she was an ingenue, and was on her way to a station when the dread darkness struck her. And so, with no other haven in sight, she clings to the big man and believes everything he tells her. And you can rest assured, he is SOME word painter!

Well, things might have been quite interesting had not her eyes been opened just in the nickatime. But we won't tell you how she is rescued, for that's the part for you to see and enjoy while seeing.

The cast which the producers have assembled for "Snowblind" makes you sit up and take notice. Witness Russell Simpson as the fugitive, a splendid characterization; little Pauline Starke as the fleeing ingenue. Cullen Landis as the fugitive's young brother, and lastly, Mary Alden as the mysterious Bella. Each particular role is well done; the scenes are beautiful and everything else about the picture is worthy of your attention. The Lyric is featuring "Snowblind" today and for the remainder of the week.

New Keith Acts at the Faurot

A TOP-NOTCH vaudeville program with a feature picture starring Pauline Frederick in "The Sting of the Lash," is starting the new program at the Faurot Opera House today, to continue thru Saturday night with another complete change Sunday.

Heading the vaudeville part of the program today is The Princeton Five, composed of a quartet of clever male musicians assisted by a capable young woman who hails from the university for which their act is named.

It is a Tom Brown production, and Tom Brown's name on musical vaudeville act means sterling quality. The Princeton Five is just the sort of an organization of expert musicians to win honor on every program.

They will play in their act practically every kind of musical instrument known, with their numbers ranging from classical operatic selections to the well known jazz tunes presented in artistic style.

The Hollins Sisters will present a musical extravaganza in, "Mirthful Moments of Musical Comedy," an attraction par excellence in the singing line presented by a pair of remarkably pretty girls of contrasting types of beauty, both of whom are splendid vocalists and graceful dancers.

Hugh Johnston, a clean cut young chap, who specializes in conjuring, offering a splendid repertoire of new and original tricks which he puts over with the required punch that goes to make the ideal entertainer. Besides being an excellent magician, he has the happy faculty of being a splendid wit and raconteur.

"The Sting of the Lash," starring Pauline Frederick, is undoubtedly one of the best photoplays being exhibited on the screens of Lima this week. It is a powerfully dramatic photoplay in which the noted star has just the sort of role for which her remarkable talents and versatility are best suited.

INVESTIGATE BOUT

CHICAGO—Investigation of the charges that John Pesek and Marin Plestina did not do their best in their wrestling match Tuesday night will be made tomorrow by the city athletic commission.

Pesek and Plestina wrestled 2 15 07 to a draw, when the match was declared no contest. It is the opinion of some members of the commission that Pesek did all he could to win and that Plestina was the principal offender.

CONNIE MACK PICKS GREATEST BASEBALL TEAM OF ALL TIME

BY BILLY EVANS

WHO are the greatest players of the past 40 40 years?

No one could possibly answer that question better than Connie Mack, famous manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Connie has been in the national pastime so many years, as player and manager, that he is a link between the old era and the present period.

Mack's all-star team for the past 40 years includes six players from the American League and four from the National. Here is the way Connie sizes up the players on his team:

"Ewing is the best all-around catcher I ever saw. Other catchers have outshone him in certain departments. He was a great player in every respect—brains, batting, fielding and judgment.

MACK'S ALL-STAR TEAM

PLAYER	POS.	CLUB
Christy Mathewson	P	New York Nationals
Buck Ewing	C	New York Nationals
Rube Waddell	P	Philadelphia Americans
George Sisler	F B	St. Louis Browns
Eddie Collins	S B	Chicago Americans
Hans Wagner	S S	Pittsburg Nationals
Jimmy Collins	T B	Boston Americans
Fred Clarke	L F	Pittsburg Nationals
Tris Speaker	C F	Cleveland Americans
Ty Cobb	R F	Detroit Americans

THREE GREAT PLAYERS

"Mike Kelly was the brainiest catcher that ever lived and Charley Bennett the best receiver, while for grace alone, Tom Daly.

"It is difficult to draw the line in pitching, with so many great pitchers to consider.

"Mathewson is the man I would pick. He had a great curve ball, plenty of speed, courage, control and a knowledge of how to pitch to every batter. He was what we call a smart pitcher.

"Waddell was the best left hander. I mean the greatest as far as actual ability was concerned. If it came to a question, tho, of Rube or Eddie Plank on my club, I would have taken Plank.

"Sisler for first base. A year ago I might have selected Hal Chase. There never will be a better fielder than Chase, but Sisler is great at everything.

"Give me Eddie Collins for my second baseman. There is a great ball player. Lajoie was the most graceful second baseman I ever saw and a great one. Taking all things into consideration, however, Collins has the shade.

"Wagner for shortstop. In the old days Herman Long and Hughie Jennings were stars. We have some remarkable shortstops in both major leagues today. However, all things considered I like Wagner best.

COLLINS A WONDER

"I would pick Jimmy Collins far and away above everybody else for third base. He was a wonder. He could handle bunts, make quick plays to first or second, hit well and was always playing for his ball club, not Collins. He gets my vote as the best third baseman that ever put on a glove.

Jack's Due To Arrive

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)

One of the first things that will be shoved under the nose of the champion will be a contract to meet Harry Wills in Montreal July 1. Sometime during the day Tex Rickard will do the shoving and Dempsey will do the shuffling. Dempsey can hardly refuse a valid offer to be consistent with the position that he was ready for any heavyweight the public wanted.

While the United States has never demanded a Dempsey-Willis fight, it seems that Canada wants it

NOT DODGING

No one has accused the champion of dodging Willis. He cannot be blamed for taking Carpentier, Brennan or Willard again if the public will stand for it.

The champion cannot be censured for earning money the easiest way possible. When talk comes from the cauliflower section that another mixed bout would kill the boxing game, it can be entirely ignored. The New York commission, seeing teh proposed fight tagged and ready for shipment to Canada, is not worrying about the danger of mixing colors in the ring.

KILBANE RAGGED

It seems now that the solons are more intent on making Johnny Kilbane fight. According to the latest edict Kilbane's title will be amputated in New York if he doesn't accept the challenge of Johnny Dundee, the junior lightweight champion.

The commission has found a rule on the books that champions must defend their titles once every six months if a bonafide challenger asks for a chance.

ATHLETIC MEET IS APPROVED

COLUMBUS — Holding of the Western Intercollegiate Wrestling, Fencing and Gymnastic meet in Columbus next March under the auspices of Ohio State University was approved yesterday by the University Athletic board. In addition to athletes from Western Conference schools, representatives from three others, Iowa State Nebraska and Oklahoma will participate. The meet will be held in the Coliseum at the State Fair grounds.

ALL FOUR HORSES "UP IN THE AIR"—PIMLICO SPRING MEET

THE peculiar feature of this photograph is that it was snapped just at the fraction of a second when all four horses had their feet off the ground.

MAY HALT PAPKE BOWSHER FIGHT

A bout between Don Bowsher of Lima and Johnny Papke Cleveland, set for Zanesville, Monday night, will in all probability be cancelled, according to advices Thursday.

Bowsher has not been in the best of shape since the death of his father several weeks ago and has the added handicap of a bad laceration on his right cheek, caused in a fight with Marty Reese of Middletown, Monday night.

Lack of sparring partners who are equal to him in weight has been one of Don's big drawbacks. It has been the comment among followers of the ring game that he will not reach his former good condition again unless he works out with bigger opponents.

Murray In Limelight

NEW YORK — George Murray who gives promise of becoming a star in Miller Huggins' pitching constellation, won the second game of the Cleveland series almost single-handed yesterday. The North Carolina recruit relieved Shawkey with the Indians four runs ahead, checked further scoring and knocked out a homer with two on that put the New York team in the running. He also contributed a timely triple later in the game, the Yankees winning, 6 to 4.

INCREASE LEAD

The champions increased their lead as St. Louis lost to Boston, 4 to 3, the Red Sox scoring all their runs in the ninth when Vangilder weakened and Shortstop McManus contributed two fatal errors.

Walker's home run scoring Johnston ahead of him, broke up a 13-inning duel between Heimach and Faber and gave the Athletics a 3-1 triumph over Chicago. It was the fourth straight for the Mackmen and put them in undisputed possession of third place as Detroit did not play.

BATTING SPREE

The St. Louis Cardinals went on a batting spree at the expense of Brooklyn, winning 11-0 and gaining on the Giants who were idle. Sherdel registered his sixth straight victory and Rogers Hornsby clouted his sixth home run.

Bunched hits enabled Chicago to defeat Boston 6-3 while Donohue held Philadelphia to three singles and Cincinnati won 1 to 0.

Intimate Chats With Rex Beach About The Great Outdoors

BY MORRIS ACKERMAN

I NEVER went on a fishing trip or a hunting trip in my life that some possible "thrill" didn't present itself.

In fact, I don't know a single angler or hunter who hasn't experienced his "greatest thrill."

Rex Beach "got his" while on "location" for his motion picture, "The Iron Trail."

"It was on the Copper river, in Alaska," says Beach. "For five days Fred Stone and myself lined a small boat up that swift-running, ice-strewn, torrential stream. On one side of us were active glaciers, three hundred feet high. On the other side was a rocky shore, towering boulders, banks fifty feets above us. The river was less than two hundred yards wide and for three miles we had to pass in the face of the glaciers.

"Twice on the trip chunks as big as the Flatiron building dropped off in a single column below us—glory be they did not drop from above us.

"It was just like going up a street of sky-scrapers where at any second one of them might fall on you. When one of those chunks broke loose you could hear it for miles. Following the crash, pieces of ice were hurled clear over on the opposite shore and the subsequent wave would have sunk a battleship.

"On the way back we passed those three miles of glaciers in ten minutes. The trip that had taken us five days of hard labor to make up the river we covered in five hours going down.

"The ten minutes we spent in hurdling down this wild stream past those active masses of ice, I unhesitatingly claim my greatest thrill."

Rex Beach is a very modest man. Likewise, he is about as rugged a two-fisted, rough-and-tumble he-man as one would care to meet. He has had more than the average number of "abnormal-tremors in the respiratory or circulatory systems," but if you are looking for an out-and-out "tremor," he recommends this one.

COMMISSION WILL ANNOUNCE STAND

A letter, giving the official position of the Lima boxing commission in the matter of Don Baxter, local bantamweight, who is alleged to have slipped out from under a contract held by Walter Perry, will be mailed by Secretary Frank Callahan to Ed Schlatter, Baxter's present manager, Perry and the newspapers.

The status of the case is, Callahan said, that the commission will not recognize any further contracts involving Baxter unless the managerial differences of the old contract are settled.

Perry was at a loss Thursday to acount for the commission not announcing the result of the probe in his favor. He said the body informed him from time to time that the situation was favorable to him.

SCHAEFER IN LEAD BY 81 POINTS

CHICAGO—Jake Schaefer, champion 18.2 balk line billiardist, will start tonight on the final block of his fifteen hundred point match with Welker Cochran, Iowa star cueist, with only an 81 point lead as the result of the challenger's brilliant flash displayed in last night's block when he made a run of 159 counters.

Early in last night's play it appeared that the champion had cinched the match but the brilliant display of billiards made by Cochran in the last frames forced Schaefer to the limit and the hardest fight of the match is predicted for tonight.

PORTSIDE TWIRLING IS NOT POISON TO BROWN HOMERUN HITTER

By KEN WILLIAMS

UNLIKE a great many left handers, southpaw pitching is far from poison to me.

In the first 10 home runs, I made this year four were off southpaw pitching.

Regardless of the style of pitching a batter faces the ball the ball will travel if hit on the nose.

WITH A LEFT HANDER

With a left hander working there is nothing I like better than a fast ball on the inside about letter high. It is a very easy matter to pull such a pitch with great force to right field.

A curve ball that doesn't take much of a break and is on the inside is also an easy ball for a left-handed batsman to take liberties with.

Ordinarily spitball pitching is not the ideal style for the making of home runs. When a pitcher has his spitter breaking well and keeps it low the batter almost invariably tops the ball, thereby hitting it on the ground.

KNEE HIGH HARDEST

With a spitball pitcher working the batter must try to pick on the fast one, or whale away at a high spitball. A spitball breaking at the waist line is not nearly so hard to hit as one that shoots across the plate at the knee.

A left hander who has a good curve and control makes it difficult for a left-handed batter to get a good crack at the ball by keeping his curve low and on the outside.

However, if I were to select the pitching to suit my fancy I would call for right handers, and the more speed the better.

20 PLANTS ENTER TOURNAMENT

In the neighborhood of 20 industrial plants have been lined up for the proposed quoit tournament Fourth of July under auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Industrial Secretary S. C. Biddle states. Equipment to stage inter-plant eliminations will soon be received.

The Lima Telephone & Telegraph company has become enthused over the game and the game will be adopted for the benefit of operators, according to present indications, Biddle said. A separate tourney for the 'phone girls is probable.

PLAY SPRINGFIELD

The Springfield Reds, strongest team representing that city, will be here for a battle with the Lima Independents Sunday, the local management announced. The Independent line-up will be revamped. A catcher and outfielder will be added.

CENTRAL, SOUTH IN MEET FRIDAY

Central and South High schools will clash at the county fair grounds Friday afternoon in the annual city track and field meet. Between 75 and 100 athletes will participate.

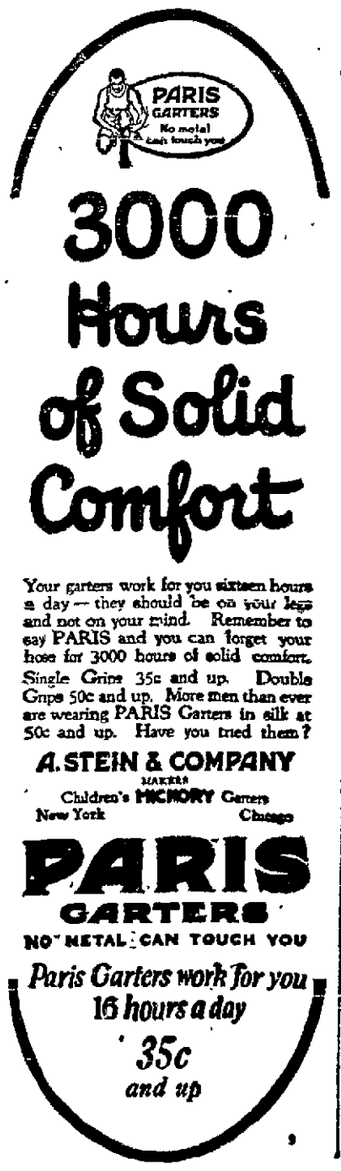

Twelve events are listed, as follows: 100, 220, 440 and 880-yard races, baseball throw, pole vault, 120-yard low hurdles, running high jump, running broad jump, shotput, javelin throw and mile relay.

NEW YORK—Another active day in copper and steel shares was foreshadowed at the opening of today's stock market. Gains ranging from large fractions to 1 1-2 points were made by a number of the metal issues, Inspiration Copper excepted. Among the steels, Midvale, yesterday's spectacular feature, opened with a transfer of 4,000 shares at a quotation unchanged from yesterday's final price, but the stock soon declined one point. Crucible, Republic and Vanadium rose one to two points and Sloss Sheffield, Lackawanna and Iron Products gained substantial fractions. Studebaker, Royal Dutch, Industrial Alcohol, Sears-Roebuck and Sumatra Tobacco also displayed firmness.

Altho lacking yesterday's broader movements, the market made further forward progress during the morning. National Lead, American Zinc preferred and Butte and Superior were added to the stronger metals at gains of 1-2 to 2 points. Midvale continued under pressure but other independent steels held or enhanced previous gains with several of the equipments, including International Harvester. Foreign issues were strong. Part of the oils and higher prices ruled strong leather, textiles, mail order and merchandising shares. Rails contributed little to the advance aside from Reading and New Haven and shippings were dull. Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent.

Coppers and steels dominated the stock market again today. Large supplies of money on easy terms accelerated the further operations of pools. Sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

The closing was strong.

STOCK AND GRAIN GOSSIP

Correspondents of Logan and Bryan (Courtesy of W. A. Rubsam & Co.)

American Locomotive declared regular quarterly dividend of one and a half on common and one and three-fourths on preferred, both payable June 30 on stock record of June 13.

Strength on the Mexican Petroleum relative to a new agreement providing for reduction of between four and five cents a barrel in taxes collected on crude oil production.

President of Sinclair Oil stated the corporation is in satisfactory condition and is in a position to pay a dividend whenever the directors so decide.

A sensational advance in Midvale accelerated the demand for independent steel shares and furnished a basis for other steel consolidation rumors. Midvale was higher on an announcement of bringing in of a new well in Texas and expectations that an extra dividend will be declared within the next ten days.

Speculative interest is centering in copper metal and allied stocks, with predictions of higher prices in the immediate future for leading issues. Some of the motor specialties are expected to advance further

The Oregon Journal says: "There has been unusual activity in vessel chartering during the last few days to carry wheat from Portland to Europe. Five steamers have recently been taken. This means that sufficient tonnage has been taken to ship all remaining stocks of wheat in the Pacific Northwest, and will be the earliest cleanup of old wheat ever known."

Hog receipts were 27,000; market strong to 10 cents higher; mediums and heavy butchers up most; bulk of sales, $10.55 to $11.00.

Russell News has a long item on European wheat problem and says the world disappearance of imported wheat has averaged 54,500,000 bushels a month for ten and a half months against 56,000,000 bushels last year.

Liverpool grain close: May wheat, and September wheat, a half lower; corn, a fourth lower; corn, July corn, half lower.

WHEAT DECLINES FOUR CENTS

Reports of Improved Crop Condition Bring Slump

CHICAGO — With cold and wet weather prevailing, regarded as likely to improve the conditions of the winter crop and the spring crop as well, the wheat market averaged a little lower in price today during the early trading. Declines, however, were checked by the fact that Liverpool quotations showed relative firmness as compared with the setbacks in price here yesterday. Chicago receipts today totalled 170 carloads. Deliveries on May contracts amounted to 161,000 bushels. The opening which varied from 1-4 lower to 1-2 advance with May $1.45 1-2 and July $1.27 to 1.27 1-4 was followed by a slight upturn and then by a moderate decline.

Rains causing delay to planting of corn tended to steady the market for corn and oats. After opening unchanged to 1-8 higher, July 64 5-8, the corn market hardened a trifle more and then underwent a slight sag.

Oats started 1-8 off to a like advance, July 40c to 40 1-8, then kept close to the initial range. Provisions were neglected but steady in line with hog values.

The wheat close was unsettled, 1-8c to 4c net lower with May $1.41¾ to 1.42 and July $1.26 1-8 to 1.26 3-8.

The corn close was easy at 1-8c to 3-8c net decline with July 64¼ to 54¾ to 3-8.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Hugh M. Allen, of Van Wert, Fifth District Democratic congressional candidate, encountered a small boy on a street he was canvassing. "Does your father vote?" he asked. "No," said the boy. "Is there any voter in the house?" he asked. "Yes," said the boy, "Ma."

Dr. Roy Hunter ran out of gas on the road from Lima to Wapakoneta. He applied at a farm house for a gallon. "We're out of gasoline," said the hospitable agriculturist, "but I can offer you some mighty fine cider."

Acute Indigestion For Over Two Years

"For over two years I suffered from acute indigestion," says Arthur L. Reeves, secretary of the Austinburg Fuel & Light Company, Ohio, "frequently calling in a physician but getting only temporary relief. Acting on the advice of a friend I took Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy regularly until the first package was used up, I then procured another package of which I have taken only an occasional dose for a real or fancied condition of acid stomach or heartburn. For seven months now I have been entirely free from any attack of acute indigestion and can eat anything I want with no fear of bad results. In case of sour stomach which is sometimes quite annoying, one dose will be found worth the price of the package. If the above statement of facts will help to call the attention of other sufferers to the merits of Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy I shall be glad to have you use it." Signed Arthur L. Reeves.

They all say the same. For 75 cents you can get a large box of Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy, a great physician's greatest stomach prescription at Hunter's 5 Stores and all good druggists.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery thru the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. All druggists.—Adv.

TOURISTS TAKE RADIO PLEASURES WITH THEM

Motorists who go on summer touring trips may take the pleasures of the city with them—by radio.

Radio, with its power to travel everywhere, will make it possible for concerts broadcast from the larger cities to be heard in the open country. While the motorist is driving along the highway he can "tune in" and listen to the program sent out from the city.

Fishing trips will not be without their radio parties, and camping grounds for motor tourists will be popular centers for such entertainments.

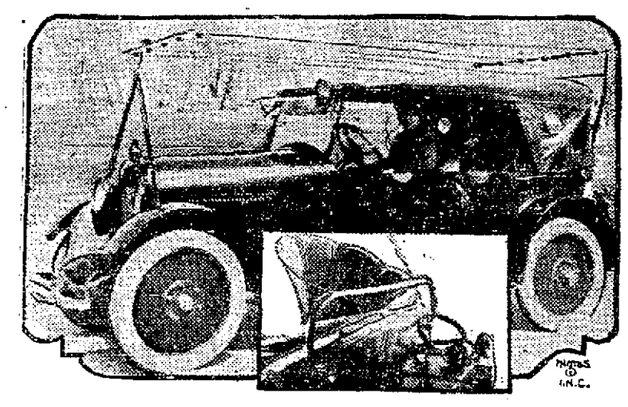

All that is needed is an aerial along the top of the automobile and a receiving set behind the front seat. While the car is moving the same radio program can be heard without the necessity of changing the instruments as the automobile advances.

Radio also is going to help motorists along the right roads to their destinations. An instrument has already been invented by which no driver using it could lose his way.

This instrument, placed on the radiator cap, with wires leading to the dashboard, is designated to catch signals transmitted thru telegraph wires along the road. Each road would have its own code signal. Reference to a code book would tell the driver where he is.

Even detours are provided for in this system. Motorists are warned of such turns before they reach these points.

Adoption of this system depends on action of the various localities. The instrument has already been tried out and found practicable. But it needs the co-operation of state authorities who may line the roads with the wires needed to carry the signals.

TOURING CAR EQUIPPED WITH RADIO RECEIVING SET

Counterpoise, Used In Place of Ground

By R. L. DUNCAN

Director, Radio Institute of America

But with a vacuum tube detector and amplifying set, the counterpoise lends sharpness in tuning and greatly eliminates interference, altho it cuts down the strength of the incoming signals a little.

In using a counterpoise, no ground connection is made to the receiving set—the counterpoise antenna taking its place.

On aircraft and in places where the ground has poor conductivity, this counterpoise antenna must be used. This is merely another antenna supported above the earth and insulated from it. The station apparatus is connected to the regular antenna and the counterpoise, instead of to the regular antenna and earth.

USE ON AIRPLANES

On an airplane the counterpoise is furnished by the metal wires of the framework, the engine, and metalized wings. The antenna may consist of a long wire which trails behind the plane when in flight often below the counterpoise. But the action is not different from the ordinary antenna and counterpoise systems.

Where an outdoor antenna is used in the country, the counterpoise should best be located directly under the aerial. It should be strung on small wooden posts arranged so that the wire does not touch the ground.

The wire should be of the same kind as that used in the aerial.

EACH CASE INDIVIDUAL

To determine the amount of wire and length of the counterpoise, each operator will have to experiment with his own problem, inasmuch as it all depends upon the size, length and number of wires in the aerial.

Be sure to keep the lead-in wire from the aerial and the counterpoise well apart to do away with losses caused by induction.

In the city where the aerial is placed on top of an apartment house, it will probably be impossible to erect a counterpoise.

If at all possible, however, every transmitting station should use this counterpoise, for it increases radiation and transmitting distance.

When You Eat Meat

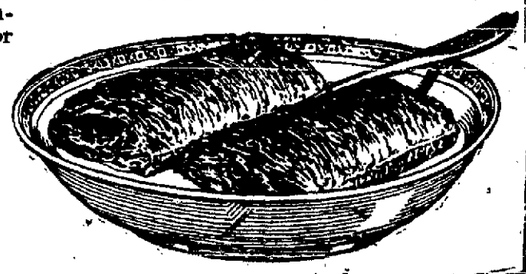

be sure you eat it with Shredded Wheat. You need the carbohydrates and the mineral salts. Nothing so deliciously nourishing as Shredded Wheat with a rasher of bacon. Shredded Wheat contains the three mineral salts the body needs—calcium, iron and phosphorus—also the vitamines that are so necessary to normal growth.

Shredded Wheat

is 100 per cent. whole wheat, nothing added, nothing taken away—cooked in steam, drawn into filmy shreds, and baked in coal ovens. The most real food for the least money.

For a warm, nourishing meal heat two Biscuits in the oven to restore their crispness; pour hot milk over them, adding a little cream and a dash of salt. Delicious with sliced bananas, prunes, raisins or canned fruits.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat cracker—a real whole wheat toast—and is eaten with butter or soft cheese.
